BL infiltrators' 'battle plan' nearly succeeded

British Leyland yesterday disclosed a documeot said to come from the far-left Socialist League, giving details of bow the company's car plant at Cowley, Oxfordshire, was to be infiltrated and why it was considered important to do so. The document, handed to BL management by concerned workers, was described by an executive as "reading like a battle plan".

It is thought that the sims outlined in the document came close to succeeding.

BL said that it was circulated to members of the Socialist League, an arm of the inter-national Trotskyist movement. last summer when the company was recruiting up to 1,300 workers at Cowley, mostly for the new Maestro car.

The conspiracy plan which it describes appears to have been followed closely, judging by the disclosures which accompanied the dismissal earlier this week of 13 Cowley "activists" for giving false information on their job application forms.

Although the document does not spell out the purpose of the proposed infiltration, it makes clear the strategic role of BL within British industry and the importance to BL of Cowley and its new Maestro.

"The size of the plant, the importance of BL and the general lack of opportunity in large cars/engineering plants means that we must go all out to get comrades in ", the documents says.

Lawson set to face dole cut revolt By Our Political Reporter

Treasury ministers still appear ready to face a confron-lation with Conservative backpenchers over a possible cut in the real value of unemployment benefit. Suggestions that the Government is unlikely to press forward with consideration of the issue because the savings involved would be trivial were denied by Treasury sources vesterday.

It was pointed out that in mooting the possibility of a cut the main concern of Mr Nigel Lawson, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, had not been to make admittedly small savings. He had in mind the "disincentive" of a high rate of unemployment henefit, and the view that some people were making a deliberate calculation that they were better off on the dole. Mr Lawson said last month that it was not possible to give a guarantee on any particular uprating of unemployment benefits. He said: "There can be no doubt whatever that at the margin there are people, even in present circumstances, who take a rational decision that it is not worth their while taking a job at the sort of pay at which jobs would be oo offer.

Text of the Cowley document

The following is the docu-ment handed to BL management by workers concerned about left-wing infiltration at the Cowley car plant. It was written on a single foolscap sheet headed "Jobs Special." capped people and three staff for £71,000; a Toxteth group employing 16 trainees and six staff for £165,000 to hulld an engine for use in the third world; and Greenbank - retaining physically handicapped people with the help of seven staff at a cost of £192,000. BL's Cowley plant at Oxford is recruiting now for the autumn of this year. This recruitment is geared toward the launch of the LM10 io the spring of next year. A launch requires 10,000 to 20,000 cars "in the field" on the launch date. So from Section 10,000 to 20,000 allocated 45 per cent of all the money coming to Britain from from September BL will be taking oo labour to prepare for this:

the first of a range of cars between the Metro and the luxury car bracket. It is central to BL's future plans. The oumber of people that city's Conservative MEP, said she was "staggered and dis-gusted" by the council's dewill be recruited will be in the region of 1,000 to 1,400. This must be seen as a clear priority for the organization. The size of the plant, the importance of BL, and the general lack of opportunity in large back them. Reports from the plant indicate that BL will be recruiting women in this wave so from that point of view also this is a major opportunity for us. If references are outside Oxford If references are outside Oxford, they will need a cover story to explaio why they are oow in Oxford or seeking to move to Oxford. None of this presents any problem. The main problem will be persuading cdes to change jobs and to move to Oxford. This applies particularly to Oxford. This applies particularly to the Londoo branches. Conference decisions oo this point are quite clear.

We have a disproportionate number of cdes io London, and one of the objectives of the turn is to correct this. Cowley openings will allow cdes to move directly into relatively well-paid jobs in e key Recruitment will start next Wednesday and we expect that there will be a large number of applicants. We need as many cdes as possible in Oxford oo that day and the two days after to go to the Job-Centre and apply. Branches must allocate the necessary resources to ensure that edes can get to Oxford. This is a collective responsibility.

The edes who have got jobs in Cowley will be available on Tuesday to belp edes with interviews, etc. As many as possible should be is Oxford on Tuesday. The Oxford branch and the centre will have edes there to help. Cdes going to Oxford should contact the national centre Pullford) or the Oxford br.

BL has been under pressure because of its discriminatory recruitment last time. They are now asking people in the plant if they have any female relatives who want jobs. So it could be the case that women cdes have a proportionately better chance than men. For this reason and because of the obvious gain for the organization, women cdes should apply. Cafe Blue near Biggleswade, Bedfordshire, believes she was the first to serve grouse in the South last year, upstaging the West End hotels. Yesterday was not so glorious; by lunchtime she had bagged a good 12 brace of ladies and gentlemee from the press, but oot a grouse was to be had.

"It's such a shame", she said. However drivers who had hoped to have grouse, chips, baked beans and bread and butter followed by pudding and a mug of tea for £1.50, hardly turned their noses up at Mrs Clark's substitute, fresh Scotch salmoo at the same price.

The regrettable obsence of the Red Grouse was explained by Mr Edwin Cheeseman, manager of the Park Hotel io Bedford, who planned the operation. "They just have not shot anything", he said of the guns he was depending on, combing moors south of Edinburgh. Mrs Clark never really stood

The rest were flown south from Inverness hy Dan Air, with passengers enjoying a taste of grouse at 33,000 ft.

The race between three big hotel groups, Trust House Forte, Thistle Hotels and Stakis Hotels ended in a close finish.

The first grouse reached Trust House Forte's Cumber-land Hoted, Marble Arch, at 8.32am, only 11 minutes before the Selfridge Thistle Hotel received its hirds. The Stakis team had missed their plane at Ermin's Hotel, Caxton Street, at .25am.

The winners collected three ases of whisky from Long John laternational but doosted the equevalent value, about £300, to the Raigmore Hospital. where it will go towards a diagnostic scanner.

shire village of Ickornshaw were oot at dawn yesterday waiting for the first quack to mark the start of their Glorious Twelfth.

It was not a geotrified shoot in the normal tradition. The local garage owner shattered the silence at 4.50am by firing a gun he bad nor used for a year. Near him in the beather was the coalman, the elec-trician, a mechanic and a weaver. There were council workers and n joiner. All of them exercising an ancient right to shoot on the 999 acres of mooriand as freeholders of lckorushaw.

Mr Chris Robertson, who has been on the shoot every August 12 for the past 16 years, said the right was jealously defended. All it cost them was a £6 game liceoce for ao eotire season, while oo the big estates one day could cost up to £760, "It's what I call an unique hargain."

The right had been given by a patrician mill owaer and dated back beyond the days when loom workers stalked the moor wearing clogs and working meo fought off o group of bigh-banded Halifax gentry with pick-axe handles to keep them off the moor. Strangers and non-freeholders

Tight security in Lourdes irks the church Bomb blast warning for Pope

More than 3,600 policemen all armed and some in plain clothes, will be in Lourdes tomorrow for the arrival of the Pope at the start of a two-day Security, already tight, was strengthened, after a bomb wrecked the first Station of the Cross near the basilica. A group calling itself Arrêts Cures (down with the clergy) claimed responsibility, saying the Pope was "the president and director-general of the Vatican Vandals set fire to fifthteenth century church at Saintes, in Charente Maritime department, badly damaging the interior. Slogans spray-painted on outside walls read "Vive le Diable!" (up with the Devil) and mentioned Lourdes.

In Lourdes, the church is highly critical of the tight security. Father Joseph Bordes, responsible for shrines at Lourdes and one of the organizers of the papal visit, said be hoped the bombing — "this derisory act of of vandalism" — would not deter pilgrims. If it did, "that would be the act of civilination" be the end of civilization".

An estimated 200,000 people are expected in Lourdes. They will include several thousand Poles. Father Bordes said that if there are fewer than a quarter of a million people "that will be a true outrage" against the Pope.

Officially, the Pope's visit is pastoral, But, significantly, it will start with a private meeting with President Mitterrand. They will have much to discuss. Zia strengthens role of president and sets martial law time limit

From Michael Hamlyn Islamabad

President Zia ul-Haq of Pakistan last night unveiled his plans for new elections in the country. His scheme envisages coostitutional changes strengthening the role of the president. The jnh seems tailor-made for Elections are to be held before March 23, 1985, for provincial assemblies, a national assembly and senate. The date has some dignificance Pakistan's history, as a government minister later pointed out it is Armed Forces Day.

The President, who is also chief martial law administrator, announced, however, that mar-ual law would end after the elections. He said the elections would be held oo the basis of the 1973 constitution, with certain amendments.

Speaking in froot of the Majlis-e-Shoora, his nominated federal council, who sat in pairs at parliamentary desks and applauded by rapping the tops at frequent intervals, the President described the constitutional changes he proposed to carry into effect.

The Prime Minister would be appointed by the President, he said though he would have to command a majority of the National Assembly. The President could dismiss the National Assembly and call fresh elections within 75 days. The President would have the power to send back any legislation he did not like for reconsideration.

Explaining this last point afterwards, General Mujibur Rahman, the Minister of Information, said it did not amount to a veto, but he did not, indicate that there was any method by which the President's wishes could be overrid-

Young Daisy's visiter

A previously unpublished work by Daisy Ashford, author of The Young Visiters, has been discovered. Her family claim that she dictated it at the age of four to her parents. It is called The Life of Father McSwiney and tells the remarkable story of a jaunt to London by the reigning Pope a century before John Paul II's visit in 1982. Full of naive charm and mordant perception - and better spell than most works by infant prodigies - it will be published on Thursday by the Oxford University Press in a collection of works from Daisy's oeuvre entitled The Hangman's Daughter and

An introduction tells the story of Daisy's childhood, with a section on how The Life of Father McSwiney came to be written.

Daisy's papist story was discovered last year, when Oxford published Love and Marriage, three romantic stories by Daisy and Angela Ashford. An interviewer on the BBC Kaleidoscope programme about Daisy spoke to Mrs Malcolmson, daughter of Daisy's sister Vera. Mrs Malcolmson mentioned having read the biography of the sparky Jesuit priest, Father McSwiney, some years ago and quoted some choice passages from memory.

Daisy Ashford, budding best-seller

. Henry Hardy of OUP, prince of the literary resurrection men, was listening to the programme and immediately got on the trail. He telephoned Mrs Margaret Steel, Daisy's elder daughter. Yes, she said, she thought she might have such a story in a drawer. It must have come back to her after Vera's death. When Dr Hardy asked why it had not been offered for publication before, she replied: "It never occurred to me that anyone would be interested".

The first half of the story tells of the birth and childhood of James McSwiney in Cork, his piety ("full of a grand and Jesuit-like joy"), his first confession ("I should like to so much, as I feel rather wicked"), and his confirmation at the age of seven with "nine and a half' painted on his chest in black figures to persuade the bishop that he was old enough. When the second part starts, McSwiney is about to become a Jesuit. Now

THE LIFE of FATHER McSWINEY

HEN James McSwiney was about twenty-five, he began to be a novice for the Jesuit lifc. After he began to wear horsehair shirts, and very tight belts with gold huttons. He wore sandals half a size too large for him, and a floppy has with a green band, to show he was a Jesuit. He bought himself a magnificent prayer-book the day before he went to the monks' college.

When he got there, a housemaid in a red frock came out and said, You must be very quiet. Jesuit, for there are visitors. There are four priests, and two very ignorant

He was then led to a dear little sitting-room, in which he found a first-rate novel which he began to

In a few minutes a man cook came in, and announced that there was a holy priest named Father McAuliffe come to see the Jesuit

He had tinged curly hair, brushed back, and coming over one eye. He had most expressive pale blue eyes, which looked as if he had just come a very long journey, and a tender mouth.
"How do you do, my dear Father

McAulisse, exclaimed Father "I do very well, thank you", replied Father McAuliffe, in a sweet angelic voice.

"I expect", said the good fat Father McSwiney, as he sat down, "you will be a canon in a few days, you look so dreadfully pious. Oh! well I don't quite know", said Father McAuliffe. Then Father McSwinev blew his nose and began thus: "You know, I said the Mass of St Bernard this morning, and I don't think it agreed with me very much, as I don't feel very well,"

"I am so sorry to hear that", began Father McAuliffe, rapidly shrinking as he was not very strong "it seems a great pity that a novice should not agree with his mass."

"It does seem a pity", said Father McSwincy, "hut I never had a great devotion to St Bernard."

"I am afraid", said Father McAuliffe, looking very sad and timid, "that my Mission is very small, and somehow I'm rather uncasy about it." "Is that so?" said Father McSwincy: "if I could convert a duke or wo and send them down to you that might make it better, mightn't it?" It would be so very kind if you would", said Father McAuliffe, "you see I don't quite know how to arrange my services. I have con-fessions before and after mass every morning, hut the people tell so very few sins that the absolution isn't so long; so I can't sit peacefully there, and I think over what vestment I shall wear and in my sermons I really don't know what to say; I either talk about the hirth of our ments of the Church, and I am sure the people must have heard it all That reminds me", said Father McSwiney, "that I have had three sermons given to me by Father Seraphim and they are all written out: they might do - you could read them out on the three coming Sundays."

"It would be such a pleasure if you would send me two or three", answered Father McAuliffe; "I'm sure I will be most grateful to you, and I will say many Our Fathers and Hail Marys for you. I suppose I bad better go and see the priest of this retreat place. I have husiness to talk with him, if you do not mind my leaving you."

"Well to tell the truth, I am coming with you", said Father McSwiney, with a chuckle in his chest.

"You are lucky, holy Father", said with a hood to it. "Thank you, dear Pope", said Father McSwiney, throwing himself at the feet of Pope Pius IX. Five days later Father McSwiney knocked at the Pope's door.

The Hangman's Daughter and other stories is published by OUP at £2.95. "Come in", said the Pope in an ili

"You have given me the wrong hahit", said the good Jesuit. "Have 1? I thought you were going to be of the First Order of St Francis", said the mild and innocent retreat at Manresa was given by the Revd T. Father McSwiney was shown upstairs by him after having said a pious goodbye to the Holy Father. The room into which he was shown was very small indeed; it was furnished with three chairs and a small table in the middle, on which was the Old Testament and other pious books. In one corner of the room in a very draughty place was a bed made of an old straw mattress covered over with a quilt. Where the fire ought to have been, but was not, was a small grotto made of oak wood. On this grotto was a statue of Our Lady with two wax candles each

"Here", sad Father Goodwin, "is your room; you see you have everything you want hut your bath, and you will find that the opposite side of the landing. Whenever you are in here you must pray hard,"

"Certainly, I shall be delighted", said the pious Father McSwiney, clasping his hands tight.

Next morning Father McSwiney jumped up and had his bath and then the Pope, who was in his dining-room. said that all the novices were to be taken to the meditation room to be tried on This is how the Pope began: he said to Father McSwiney, who stood at the top of the elass, "Say the Father McSwiney began in his low voice and after he had finished the Pope said. "What were you thinking about when you said it?"

"God", said Father McSwiney

"That's all right", said the Pope; "come here to me." sacred face beaming with joy.

"Pax tecum", exclaimed the Pope, "you are the piousest of all."

Father McSwiney smiled and looked round at the other novices as if to say, "What do you think of that?", at which the other novices were rather insulted.

"I'll make you a Jesuit if you like", exclaimed the Pope.
Father McSwiney said "Yes", and this is how he was made a Jesuit.

First of all the Pope washed his face in holy water and oil and then hlessed him; after that he gave him fresh clothes and the Jesuit habit.

"Now", said the Pope, "you must stay in this monastery till you have grown a beard and then will be a

When his beard had grown he felt rather stuffy and wished monks could go without beards. And then a great event was to happen in honour of his being a Jesuit. A lovely mass was to be said at which the ladies were only allowed to sing the Kyrie. When the mass was over a lovely breakfast took place in the Manresa

. There was first some lovely Italian coffee which the Pope bad brought with him and some French tea, and then in the middle of the whipped creams, as they were eating them, the Pope said, "Let us make speeches — you begin; Father McSwiney."

Father McSwiney got up on a chair and said: "Clergy, ladies and gentlemen, as I have been made a Jesuit F stand on this rickety chair to give you thanks for coming to the entertainment. I don't mean to say that I think myself pious because I am a Jesuit - I might be very wicked. Oh how well I remember the first day I was in this monastery." - and here he felt very like crying, so he got off the rickety chair and the Pope gave him a bun and an icecream in honour of his nice speech.

Then the Pope made his speech hut he stood on a throne and said, "Dominus vobiscum et cum spiritu tuo in nomine Patris et Filii etc. This is a happy day. I feel cold and joyous and I return thanks to the darling Father McSwiney who is so humble - he says he is wicked but ah! his goodness runs through my heart like sacramental wine."

Here the Pope began to weep violently, and nobody knew what for, but he managed to get off his throne somehow, and the Arch-hishop lugged him into an armchair Father McSwiney walked up, his and two bishops poured wine down

As the three walked together the waiter said, "There's a love scene in the play", and here the Pope nudged

There was a love scene, and it was very pious, and in it there was a great deal of conversation about St. Joseph, and Father McSwincy laughed with pleasure; in fact the Pope did too.

The Pope was fairly astonished, and to show that he was so he poured two or three drops of water down the waiter's throat, and patted his back to see if it would make him come un-drunk, but it was no good.

So what do you think that talented Father McSwiney did? He made the waiter sit in front of the fire till he got his right senses, and then he sat beside him on the sofa and gave him full instructions on not being drunk, while the Pope looked on and smoked a pipe. After that awful adventure they soon left that restaurant you may be sure.

That night these two were very unfortunate. They could not find a bed anywhere, so they wandered about the low streets of London till they saw a fat old man, who ntecred to give them a night's lodging in his Public . . .

that anyone under 30 will need to be told that it was a brilliant production with a large cast (20m, 10f) and gave a pretty grim impression of life in the medical ward of a London teaching hospital which I called the Sir Stafford Cripps. And anyone under 50 will need to be told that Stafford Cripps was the embodiment of post-war austerity.

The play had started from my own observations as a patient during three attempts to inflate a collapsed lung, but had become with each draft more ghoulish, a process I now see to be an error of judgment. Still it was nothing like as morbid as Orwell'a essay How the Poor Die, which was to some extent my which was to some extent my model. This told of his spell in a Paris hospital in the 1920s and dwelt on brutal remedies and casual death with a relish that Swift might have envied. Yet for all that, Orwell's vidow was among many on the left who thought my play a reactionary attack on the health service.

In fact, I have never doubted that the NHS was an aspect of public life for which every British person could feel some pride. Being well-estab-lished, it could not be harmed by criticism, only strengthened, 50 hardy and fruitful that no government would dare uproot it, so obviously right that private medicine would soon, like Marx's proletariat, wither away. We live and learn.

Brought down by a virus, needing minor operation and faced with an intolerable waiting list. I have for the first time paid for treatment in Harley Street. The operation was carried out in the early morning. I woke from the general anaesthetic at 10 and looked out on a scene as husy as any in Tehran or Kuwait. Burnouses and veils passed to and fro in this new Casbah of Cures, fathers, leading their families to the right counter in this Harrods of Healing. And where did the shopkeepers learn their business? In those same National Health teaching nospitals which I had sent up in that old play.

. Perhaps the Aneurin Beyan would have been a better name for my ward because it was he, not Cripps, who swung the service on the BMA by exploiting a rift between surgeons

Not the Peter Nichols. Not the one and physicians. Many welcomed it, whose pertinent reports on modern of course, and most learnt to work within it and still do, moonlighting in Harley Street for only part of the working week. So why worry? If oil money subsidizes our national health, isn't that only Robin Hood in modern dress, a new distribution of wealth?

Who can blame a nurse for going private when her association has promised not to strike for better pay. believing their work to be outside politics, which of course no one's is. This tension will not hold. I do not believe that commercial medicine and a real public health service can live together for long.

The last nail in the coffin of communism as killed by the Soviets

The tension will not hold. I do not believe that commercial medicine and a real public health service can live together for long... One of them must wither away.

The question is, which? was the news that they now allow a sector of private medicine. An area of privilege is no more necessary or welcome in health than in edu-cation. If Marxism is only to be an alternative view of history, most of won't be concerned. What interests us is the practice of equality, which notion Mary McCarhy said was irresistible. In a world that values only profit, either commercial medicine or a public health service must wither away. The question new is: which?

We all know about waiting lists -I hear that a hernia may be done in seven years. An elderly woman friend of my mother's spent her savings on a hip operation that enabled her to leave the house. For advice on how to live with tinnitus. I would have had to wait two years - or two months If I paid. I not only bought my way uo the queue hut got a general rather than a local. "How the poor get cured' is as urgent now as how they die. And "who are the poor?" is another question.

Drinking a post-operative coffee after signing my cheque, I browsed through the brochures. A new scheme aims to attract British customers by offering twin-bedded rooms at a cost that will come. within the range of the private insurance companies. So now ever-the better-off British are - by thr standards of Messrs Leech an Sawbooes - the official poor. Com back, Stafford Cripps, all is forgiven.

Now a golden oldie road report

Whatever I am doing about the house, whether struggling in the kitchen or wiring a topiary peacock, l always have one car cocked to Radio 4. What other service gives such extensive coverage of the arts as Kaleidoscope or the immediacy of Today, a programme that sets you up with all you need to know for the next 24 hours?

But, passionate devotee though am, I have a complaint to which, I hope, the BBC's new chairman, Stuart Young, will address himself:

I have always accepted that The Archers has to be repeated, in fact three times in all. But now, increasingly evoking a scream, a shout of "Not again" and a fliek of the off-switch, the practice is being extended to other programmes that formerly went out once only.

During the silly season especially, I suppose, impoverished planners have to paper over the odd hour or two at bargain basement prices. But can that really justify editing Richard Baker's entertaining Start the Weck on Monday morning and broadcasting it again the same evening?

Robert Rohinson's irritating vehicle for the opinionated, Stop the Weck - thankfully off the air for the moment - is repeated only four hours after its first transmission on Saturday evenings to ensure that we don't miss any crumb of its perpetual demolition of everything from gardening to old-fashioned good manners.

Plays are endlessly repeated. though the intervals are much longer. Often a play strikes a familiar but disconnected note in the memory; phrases float around in the recesses of the mind trying, vainly, to be placed. But all is revealed at the end when the announcer tells us that the play was last broadcast in 1976 or 1981 or 1965,

Concerts share the same fate, although music hy its very nature is one long repeat, so it is far less obtrusive. It is repeats involving words that really nag.

The repeat cycle at its most devastating can begin on Monday. with an extract from the programme devoted to what's in store for us during the coming week. There will be the programme itself and its repeat, then perhaps another dose in Margaret Howard's Pick of the Week on Friday evening – with a repeat on Saturday morning. Add to this sections used as trailers and one can be hearing either a whole programme or chunks of it up to eight or time times within seven days. Then, of course, there are the proved to be a goldmine for every variety of reruns. There is straighcomedy like the present Sunday lunchtime replays of shows mostly from the 1960s and early 1970s. Joyous in their heyday, they now do a positive disservice to Kenneth Horne, Kenneth Williams and Betty Marsden, their mainstays. Time has moved on so much that their topical allusions are as remote as those in The Shoemaker's Holiday. But the archive offers much more than that to the purveyors of nostalgia. With judicious editing and the addition of a commentary. "new" programmes can be created from dusty old recordings. The voices of the great can be cobbled into radio portraits and the vanished worlds of music hall or musical comedy made to live again. It would be interesting to have the statistics on repeats. Is it my imagination or have they increased dramatically in the past five years? And with the BBC's diminishing resources, where will it lead? At the moment it looks as though Radio 4 could become one gigantic feast of repeats, apart from the News; and I sometimes suspect there must be regrets at Broadcasting House that even this cannot be repeated. Perhaps it could be. After all old news is safe; its disasters no longer devastate, its threats no longer

And why not repeat old weather reports? The same applies to them, In fact, why not give over a whole wavelength to repeats and provide more time on Radio 4 for something new? It might be less frustrating in the end for planners and listeners

WORRIED NEIGHBOURS

Mexico is more important to the Unites States than Israel, the whole of the Middle East, and probably Europe too. That importance may not be recognized explicitly tomorrow when President Reagan meets President Miguel de la Madrid in La Paz. Their discussions, it is said, will concern developments in Central America. Behind those discussions, however, there is a tacit acceptance that the fate of the two countries has become even more interwoven, so that both would suffer from any continuous disagreement over what to do in Central America.

Unfortunately that disagreement already exists in a form which may not allow resolution. The view from Washington is that developments in Central America could ultimately subvert Mexico. The Mexicans resent this attitude as one more manifestation of American paternalism. However, American suspicion of Mexican stability is long standing and well founded in view of recent Mexican developments - the scale of its problems and the unpredictable and mysterious nature of its politics. The collapse of Mexican stability, leading to insurrection, revolution, or just a prolonged period of economic and social disintegration cannot feature in any exchange of courtesies between the presidents, but it features in the minds of American policy-makers.

The effect on the United States of such a collapse in Mexico would be very serious: The two countries share a common frontier of 1600 miles. Their economies are similarly bound together. The United States is Mexico's main trading partner, the destination and source for more than three-quarters of Mexico's trade. Mexico has replaced the Middle East as the principal foreign source of American oil, while the United States in turn supplies Mexico with 82 per cent of its imports.

So, regardless of geo-politics, the United States has consider-. able vested interest in the performance of the Mexican economy, Washington has watched with justifiable concern the mismanagement of that economy by the last President, and the difficult stabilization programme of President de la Madrid. The Mexicans, for their part, can legitimately claim that the performance of the US economy has a critical impact on their own through the rise in interest rates which costs Mexico $700m for each percentage point rise, given Mexico's need to service is huge international debt The Cuban revolution has already caused hundreds of thousands of refugees to flee to the United States. Social disintegration in El Salvador and Nicaragua has now created a new exodus of refugees to Sonthern Mexico and the United States. Today's difficulties would be tiny compared to the massive upheaval across the US-Mexican border should Mexico's indeciferable polity start to disintegrate under the pressure of Cuban-inspired subversion spreading from Central America. and the strain of economic austerity at home.

Last year the United States received nearly 900,000 illegal immigrants across the border from Mexico. Legal crossings each year now exceed 200,000,000. The border is not controllable. Moreover, a Mexican Government dedicated to mischief-making could aggravate its relations with the United States by laying claim to territory beyond its border with as legitimate a basis for the claim as the Argentine one to the Falklands - in other words juridically questionable, but rhetorically popular in Latin America.

It is symptomatic of the Mexican unwillingness to share There is an estimated $7 billion Washington's concern for these

Government prefers to maintain the status quo on the border. even though it festers in their bilateral relations. Mexicans seem to consider that it is a necessary safety valve within Mexico, to allow a sufficient number of its citizens to escape their social and economic difficulties by illegal emigration to the United States. That does not say much for Mexico's self-confidence in its future capacity to manage its own society in the face of further infection from Central America. The trouble with Mexico is that the presidential system introduced with the 1917 Constitution does not provide for any real popular participation in presidential politics other than in the most formal sense of regular elections. The President is selected secretly. He is then elected without having to reveal either his policies or the base of his political support. It is true that Mexico has avoided the military intervention that has characterized the rest of Latin America, but the health of this secretive, unpredictable and inherently arbitrary system of leadership cannot be taken for granted in the face of the sustained instability of most other countries in the region. Under the influence of oil revenues the State has become more centralized in its planning. Mexico's leaders are more technocratic and less populist. That might augur well for the management of its economy in terms which would find favour with the IMF. But the nightmare for some Washington officials is that Mexico's technocrats will discover that they are as out of touch with the scale of disaffection in the rural areas of their country as were the Shah's managers in Iran. It cannot be pleasant for Washington policy makers to visualize a future for the United States sharing a common frontier with a neighbour of 73 million inhabitants vulnerable to such political

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A better deal for those on remand

From Ms Jil Cove

Sir, The news item by Peter Evans (August 4) on the plight of remand prisoners must surely give rise to a number of questions in the minds of all caring people.

Many of these remand prisoners will eventually be acquitted of the charges against them, or, if convicted, will be dealt with by noncustodial sentences. They will have no opportunity to claim compensation for the degrading treatment received whilst oo remand.

To allow remand prisoners to remain in police cells, where conditions are even more cramped, unhygienic and de-humanising than prisons, is nothing if not intolerable. To learn that some are manacled together during their 15 minutes' exercise is even more atrocious. The £1.4m that has been spent during the first two mooths of this financial year could and should have been reallocated to provide more bail accommodation, out only in hostels administered by the Probation Service, but also those ruo by the voluntary organisations.

Sentencers should be reminded again of the need for a presumption for granting bail, even though many seem to accept police opposition to bail without apparent question. Leon Brittan, the Home Secretary, has gone oo record as saying that he is determined to stop the use of police cells to house remand prisoners by the end of the year. So far, there has been no evidence of a proposal as to how this will happen. In any case, members of this association believe that four mooths

Parents and Pill

From Dr David Cowper

Sir, I have read your leading article, coulded "Parents and the Pill" (July 27) and found that you put forward both sides of the discussion cogently, but I do not think the writer can have been a doctor who has been directly faced with a request for contraception from a girl who is under the age of sixteen.

Firstly, I would say that in my own experience it is a relatively rare occurence. Usually by the time someone of this age group asks for contraception they have already been sexually active. There are a smaller minority who take "the pill" merely to keep up with their peer group and are not sexually active.

In the past I have delivered more ner mist baby and a 14-year-old of her second baby. I admit that these types of coofinement are rare, but are never the less traumatic for all concerned, including the doctor. I would suggest that prescribing cootraception to sexually active girls could reasonably be construed as good preventive medicine.

As far as I know there is oo published evidence which shows that a girl or young woman using an oral cootraceptive is therefore more liable to be promiscuous.

I think Mrs Gillick would have a justifiable case if she could show that doctors are actively persuading their younger female patients to use contraception against the wishes of the patient. I do oot believe that any of my colleagues are adopting this type of behaviour. It appears that girls who are sexually active early io their lives often come from homes where communication within the family has been poor, or has broken down. I believe that having legal sanctions to back up parents would almost certainly limit discussion within the family even more. It might also act as a lure for physically mature, but emotionally immature adolesceots, on the basis that "forbidden fruit" are often more tempting and

67 Fitzgerald Road, E11. A Nicaraguan treaty

From Mr Frank Griffith Dawson Sir, The letter from Mr Jeremy Corbyn, MP, and others (August 1) concludes that Britain has a responsibility to find a peaceful solution to the Central American crisis. Their argument would have been more effective had they identified with greater precision the grounds upoo which responsibility rests. that During the eighteenth century English colonists settled along the Caribbean coastlines of Hondaras and Nicaragua, where they were shielded from Spanish attack by the fierce Mosquito Indians. Even after the settlements were abandoned in 1786, English traders from Belize continued to cultivate the Mosquito will appointing the Belize Superintendent Regent of his kingdom during the minority of his heir.

Using this pretext, British policymakers established a protectorate over the Mosquito kingdom down the length of the Nicaraguan coast. An English consul lived at Bluefields as tutor and adviser to the young king, who adopted the laws of England as the laws of his own domain. The Mosquito flag --modelled on the English naval ensign -- waved over this new imperial acquisition in defiance of Nicaraguan sovereignty. In 1860, bowing to American pressure, Britain signed a treaty with Niceragua surrendering its protectorate on condition that the Mosquitos were allowed to live in a semi-autocomous reserve under their king. Nicaragua tolerated this arrangement for 34 years before its troops marched in to reassert Managua's authority.

Eventually, in 1905, Britain signed an additional treaty consenting to the abolition of the reserve provided its old allies, the Mosquitos, were allowed to reside in authorities! Given these historical links, it seems clear that Britain has a responsibility in the Central American debate extending beyond a rubber-stamp endorsement of President Reagan's controversial policies. Yours faithfully. FRANK GRIFFITH DAWSON, Wolfson College,

Striking a balance in medical needs

Sir, Your well informed leader, "Balance sheet of medicine" (August 4), rightly draw attention to the need for more truth and frankness by both Government and health authorities in considering how to meet growing demands in times of increasing . financial stringency. More and more the debate ought to be about alternative priorities and standards of care, not about clever ways to balance the books or meet the centrally imposed manpower

None the less, it is important that the public know the full extent of what you rightly describe as the developments which have been rattling the NHS since the election. While there has been a good deal of debate on the possible effects of the recent financial care (#140m in the recent financial cuts (£140m in the current year), it is still not known vhether they are to be recurring, but health authorities are increasingly fearing the worst and planning

In addition, substantial NHS manpower reduction targets were announced just before the parliamentary recess and so far these have received very little public attention. Health authorities are currently considering how best to meet a total staff reduction of 6,000 to 8,000 from the position last March, by next April. While just under one per cent of the total NHS labour force, this is io excess of the reductions required by the financial cuts: it has to be achieved in under six mooths, despite low current staff turnover and acticipated strong trade union resistance and will detract from the efforts being made by NHS man-

From the President of the Institute of agers to find the most cost-effective Health Service Administrators solutions.

As your leader points out, the targets increase central control, despite the Government's stated aim for the recent reorganisation "10 ensure that as many decisions as possible are taken by local health authorities" (Patients First, HMSO, 1979). The targets could produce the ludicrous effect of authorities paying out more, either to their own staff who, while reduced in oumber, will carn more by increases in bonus or overtime payments to cover the work, or to contractors, not because they are cheaper, but because they employ staff who will not count against the authorities targets. In either case the net effect will be less resources for patient services and already some authorities are postpooing priority developments for which they have the funds, while others may have to reduce services further than they need to keep within their cash limits.

The NHS is used to living with financial uncertainty and has consistently improved its productivity.
NHS managers understand that they may well have to operate with fewer resources while continuing to de-velop agreed priority services. They are more likely to do so, without resortion to the Whipps Cross type of restrictive solution, if they are allowed to develop their own most cost-effective plans without constant fluctuations in their resource assumptions and arbitrary central water courses regularly dry up in the summer because of water extraction Harvest of change

From Lord Walston

Sir, Is it oot time to stop trying to pin solely on farmers the blame for changes in the countryside? Can we not face the fact that the whole of England, rural and urban, is passing through a period of rapid change, some of it unwelcome to one minority group or another, but most of it bringing benefit to the majority?

There are many things that I, as a relatively prosperous countryman, selfishly regret. My nearest town, Cambridge, is very different from what it was when I was young. Old buildings have disappeared and been replaced by large, and usually ugly, office blocks. Small shops and cheerful shopkeepers have gone, and instead are impersonal supermarkets and chain stores. Cars can no longer park in unclustered streets, but must go to multi-storey car parks. The village, that I have known all my life, is twice the size it was 40 years ago. Cottages formerly lived in by farm workers and their families are now, enlarged and modernized, the homes of commuters or retired people from far away. Paddocks where a few cows used to graze are for the use of distant towns. Others, less fortunate than I, suffer from motor-ways or by-passes hisecting their land or running within yards of their formerly peaceful gardens. Some have airports on their doorsteps.

All these things, like modern farming methods, noisy bird scarers (far less noisy than motor-bikes), continue working late at night (hut never more than two or three times a year), are essential parts of a dynamic scene. They bring anooyance and sadness to some, usually the comfortably-off and middle-aged or elderly. But even to these people, and still more to millions who are less fortunate, they have brought the prosaic advantages of running water, indoor sanitation, ease of access to different, and lovely, scenery - and an assured supply of food, the cost of which has risen less than that of most of the other things on which we spend our money.

Criminal evidence

From Sir David Napley

Sir, Mr Douglas Hurd's carefully phrased answer (August 2) to my letter (July 20), will simply not do. There may be a basic Home Office circular to the police recommending that scientific findings, having a bearing on the case, should be made available by the police to the defence, but in 46 years' experience of criminal justice I cannot recall a single case in which it has so far happened.

Mr Hurd asserts that in summary trials the results of any examination which the prosecution proposes to use in evidence are supplied to the defence. Apart from certificates as to excess alcohol in drink driving cases this is oot correct. It has been the procedure for many years, uoder the Magistrates Courts Act, for copies of statements to be supplied in advance of the committal proceedings. This has oothing to do with the laboratories and in the prepooderance of cases the scientific statements are so worded or edited that the matters which may assist the defence are oot

generally self-evident Theatre museum

From Mrs Jack Emery

Sir, Mr Hodsmao (August 6) refers to cultural activities and the heritage as an optional extra to be paid for only when the nation has already paid for its defence, education, health and social welfare. In so doing, he perpetuates a fundameotally erroneous view of national priorities and one that does much harm to the arts. The claims of all components in our national life must legitimately exist side by side. It is the interplay between them that defines the character of British society at any one time. And the values of that society are continually expressed and challenged io what we call "the arts," our traditions of literature and criticism, of music and the visual and performance arts.

The idea that the storing of "theatrical ephemera" is crucial to the national interest can easily be ridiculed. So can a consignment of bedpans or a delivery of ground sheets. That is to miss the larger point of national cultural identity.

What price education with no new writers or playwrights? What price health and welfare with oo sustainiog cultural values? What price defence when there's nothing left to defend? Yours faithfully having spent a large sum of money in producing this potentially valuable information, the sensible thing to do is to speed more money, if necessary, to ensure that the effort has not been wasted: to see that the information is used as widely as is economically and socially profitable.

It was not easy to convert these priociples into practice. As far as I can remember, we decided that the general output of the Met Office should be freely available to all and that every help should be given to the press and hroadcasting auth-orities to disseminate it as widely as possible; and that only where special arrangements had to be made to meet an industrial or commercial requirement should a charge be

Attlee's Korean policy

From Professor Alan Thompson Sir, General Sir Anthooy Farrar-Hockley's lucid article today (Spe-cial Report, July 27) oo the Korean war clearly makes his forthcoming book on the subject obligatory reading for all students of postwar political, military and economic history. I would add only one observation to his treatment of the British involvement in this war. This was the crucial role of the Prime Minister, Mr Clemeot Attlee. His decisive leadership in the Cahinet led to the immediate despatch of two battalions (two months ahead of our promised hrigade group) to defend the Natking river where, as Sir Anthony poiots out, a brave and skilful North Korean force was oo the verge of breaking through. As a young Labour parliamentary candidate in 1950 I knew something of the intense opposition to Mr Attlee's stand from within his own party. Throughout all this pressure and manoeuvring. Mr Attlee remained cool, coosistent and determined. The fury of his opponents, at party conferences and elsewhere, failed to move this quiet, implacable man from his chosen course of action. Mr Attlee did not believe that the problems of Asia could be solved by military victory. Furthermore, his experience at Gallipoli in the First War left him with oo illusions as to the sufferiogs and sacrifices of war. As far as the South Korean regime was concerned he never believed that Mr Syngman Rhee was a reiocarnation of Ahraham Lincoln or a dedicated reader of John Stuart Mill's essay On Liberty: He also had grave misgivings (as did President Truman) about Geoeral MacArthur. What he did know, however (from the tragedy of Eastern Europe) was that, under Stalio, a larger tyranny threatened the world. His prompt despatch of a military force helped to avert this threat.

In domestie political terms, Mr Attlee's achievement was outstanding. He committed the Labour Party firmly to a policy of collective security against aggression and gave it new confidence in its role in world

If the ballot had not been held the given date, the existence of the fund would be illegal and Conservative trade unionists ould, and would, challenge it in ine courts. The virtual certainty that it could be successfully challenged, and the fact that it is an entirely open question how trade unionists would vote nowadays explain why the ballot is realistic as well as fair. For if in one sense this is an exercise in

Ballots on political funds would merely have registered the solidity of individual trade unionists supassisting the realignment of the port for Labour. Now it is self-evidently different. Increasingly, trade union leaderships do not properly represent their ordinary members, and the voting figures for the Conservative and Alliance parties show the decline of trade unionist loyalty to Labour. The system by which union leaders as many millions of their members as they have funds to buy votes with, and use those votes to swing Labour policy to the left, is clearly a political abuse. The system was always theoretically unfair but that did not matter when trade unionists fully supported the way in which their money was used. Now it is questionable how far they do and enthusiasm among Englisb In fact, the dogma of the Assumption is a development of that of Resurrection. As Seen often as a polemical and Christ is the first fruits of the divisive dogma, an ecumenical harvest of the dead, so his embarrassment, or arrogant Mother, the God-hearer, is assenion of papal claims in the raised up to share in the risen pre-Vatican 2 atmosphere. the life of the glorified Body of dogma is not widely seen as Christ As in the Resurrection more than an irritant, at best a peripheral factor, at worst the of Christ, so in the Assumption of Mary, it is the whole personality, the soma, which is most outrageous of the Marian

> The Assumption repeats the false dualism of body and soul which still affects the Christian world: it is the whole person which is raised, just as it is the whole material creation which is to be transformed and share the freedom of the children of God (Rom 8). Mary is thus the forerunner

Marian dogmas in an overof the cosmic assumption of whelmingly male and cerebral Christian Iradition. "Liberation which Paul writes; she is the microcosm of the new and glorified creation. The dogma is Mariology" is certainly on the io part an assertion of the Uncountedly much Marian materialistic basis of the Chrisdevotion has been based on a distonion of the Mary of the tian bope.

But the raising up of Mary represents also the evaluation of the poor, the anawim, God's little people. Small is not only beautiful: small is Queen of Heaven, It is this reversal of power structures which Mary predicts in her "hymn of the universal social revolution" (as Thomas Hancock called it).

God has looked lovingly on her humble state, her littleness, and as a result she will be Makaria, hlessed. God puts down the dunastas and fills those in need. "It would be easy of these verses and ignore that literal interpretation", notes the evangelical scholar Howard Marshall. "The coming of the Kingdom of God should bring about a political and social revolution, bringing the ordinary life of mankind into line with the will of God." The Assumption is also a pointer towards the recognition of the feminine dimension in God. Not in the sense that Mary is evalued to the status of a fourth person of the Trinity: but rather that, through the raising of this woman to share the divine nature, we should face the necessary consequence that womanhood as much as manhood, is involved in that nature.

God is not male, and the motherhood of God needs to be taken seriously. Marian devotion can only too easily be used as a safety-valve, a way of transferring the feminine dimension away from God to an idyllic, virginal creature. So we relate to Mary, while retaining the essentially male-dominated symbolism of deity.

There is much to be wrestled with before we can assen positively that Mariology is a potentially liberating tradition. But the place of Mary alongside her Son can hardly be ques-tioned. As the late Fr Raymond Raynes once said: "If Our Lady is not in heaven, where the hell is she?" The truth of the resurrection demands that, whatever else we say, we must at least say that Christ is in heaven and his Mother with

Science report

Testing our daily rhythms By Clive Cookson, Technology Correspondent

The daily rhythm of our physical and mental activities is regulated by two separate biological clocks, rescarch has shown

In normal life our internal clocks run with the same period because they are reset every 24 hours by external events. But an experiment at the laboratory of Human Chronophysiology in New York has successfully uncompled the two oscillators, one indicated by body temperature and the other responsible for the daily cycle of sleep and wakefniness, and different type of activity. The US researchers kepl a young volunteer isolated from all normal time clues for 52 days. They gave him meals and sent him to sleep according to u timetable designed for without experiment proved that each affects a revealing the real time.

After nine days on a 24-bour sleep/wake schedule, the signal for the subject to go to sleep was delayed by five hours on the tenth day. Then the researchers imposed an exact 25.8-hour sleep/wake rootine on the following 40

This timetable produced the required desynchronization of the two rhythms. The sleep/ wake cycle held to the imposed 25.8-bour period, while the body temperature [recorded automatically by a rectal probe every minute) followed its own independent 24.8-hour rbythm. (Many previous experiments with isolated voluntecrs bave shown that the "free-running" circadian rbythm is normally slightly longer than 24 hours.) Five times a day the subject performed a series of tests measuring simple manual dexlerity and complex verbal reasoning. Computer analysis of the results showed that manual dexterity followed the 24.8-hour temperature cycle very closely, with best per-formances at the same time as highest temperatures. Performance on the cognitive tests depended on both the temperature and the sleep/ wake cycle, but much more oo the latter. The subject reasoned fastest soon afterwaking. The New York experiment helps to explain previous observations that people do simple repetitive tasks most efficiently doring the late afternoon or early evening peak in body temperature, while jobs requiring more tboogbt and/or short-term memory are done best in late morning.

When our circadian roythm is thrown out of phase by jetlag or by working on a night shift, the temperature cycle takes much longer to adjust than the sleep/wake cycle. So verbal reasoning recovers more quickly than physical dex-terity; hetter 10 be a jet-set journalist than a globe-trotting athlete.

Dunvegan echoes to pipers' fine lament

By Augus Nicol

Ten pipers competed on Patrick Og McCrimmon", hursday night in Dunvegan Donald Ban's predecessor as Thursday night in Dunvegan Castle in the seventeenth MacCrimmon Memorial Pio-baireachd recital for the silver chanter. The event was instituted by the late Dame Flora Macleod of Macleod in commemoration of the silver chanter said to have been presented to the Macleod's Murray Henderson took the third prize with the "Lament for Donald Duaghal MacKay", composed by Donald Mor MacCrimmon, grandfather of Patrick Og. Another tune ascribed to Donald Mor is the "Lament for the Earl of Antrim", which was played by pipe major Gavin Stoddart who took fourth prize.

The fifth prize went to Tom Speirs, who played "The King's Taxes".

As well as a competition this was a superb concert of tunes played in what was formerly the Great Hall of Dunvegan Castle, where many of them would have been played for the first second, played the "Lament for time.

OBITUARY

LORD WIGG Controversial commitment to security and Army affairs

Lord Wigg, PC: who died in London on August 11 at the age of 82, was an active figure in politics for many years, and reached the peak of his influence during the period from 1964 to 1967, when he was Paymaster-General in the governments of Mr Harold Wilson, as he then was.

Wigg's exact responsibilities in this position were never exactly defined, though efforts were frequently made to find out what they were. What was known was that he was very close to Wilson, that he was responsible for keeping Wilson informed about developments within the Labour Party, and that he took a particular interest in matters of security and in defence in general.

His interest in defence dated back many years, to the time be had spent in the Army before and during the Second World War. This experience coloured his view of politics, and he was often seen as bringing the style and attitudes of a barrack-room lawyer into Westminster.

He had, in fact, a devouring passion for the Army. As an old sweat who had served for some 25 years, he believed he knew how men in barracks behave, and that he could spot a scurvy quariermaster a mile away. He expressed measureless contempt for any army that kept its officers fat and its men thin.
At the same time he had a marked streak of pugnacity. He enjoyed rows particularly if they involved the smiting of Tories or Mioisiers of Defeoce - though he would privately admit that his lust for battle sometimes obseured his judgment. But his anger arose, not from a choleric tentperament. but a passionate desire for social justice. It was his concern that the soldier should get a square deal which made him a merciless harrier of successive Defence Ministers over recruiting and the ending of National the Turf, and loved to spend time at the races, mixing with trainers and owners. He bimself owned race-horses at one time. After leaving the government in 1967, he became chairman of the Horserace Betting Levy Board, where he remained until 1972 and showed his characteristic bluntness in challenging the rules of the Jockey Club. George Edward Cecil Wigg was born on November 28, 1900, the son of an Army officer. He won a scholarship to Basingstoke Grammar school, spent some time in the Middle during the Vassall debate. East, which gave him a lasting After Profumo's denial Wigg. Wigg is survived by hinterest in Arah affairs. He also armed with further evidence, and their three daughters.

educated himself through the Workers' Education Association. (WEA) He left the Army in 1937 to become a part-time organizer for the WEA, but returned three years later as an officer in the Royal Army Education Corps. In 1945 he stood for Parhament and was elected MP for Dudley, which he represented until 1967. For some years he was Parliamentary Private Secretary to Mr Emanuel Shinwell, as he then was, first at the Ministry of Fuel and Power, and later at the War Office.

In those days Wigg to some extent supported the Bevanites, but he also believed in party discipline, and in 1951, after Bevan had resigned, Wigg became a Labour Whip, which he remained until 1954.

He was early associated with Harold Wilson. He gave him open support in 1961 in bis challenge for the leadership of the Labour Party after the Clause Four and unilateralism disputes. Two years later, after the death of Gaitskell in 1963, Wigg acted as Wilson's campaign manager in the leadership struggie. Unlike other canvassers.

Wigg worked silently, keeping a close watch on developments from the sidelines. But be was a He long had a fondness for: skilled analyst of the forces in play, and his assessment of Wilson's support among the 249 Labour MPs was only three out when the result was announced. Nowhere else was his talent for political strategy so apparent as in the way he achieved the downfall of Mr John Profumo, and very nearly of the Macmillan administration. It was igg who broke the story of collected, convinced Wilson and left at the age of 14 to work in a factory. In 1919, he joined and who, with Barbara Castle the new Tank Corps, and during and Richard Crossman, broke his subsequent Army career? the story by raising the rumour spurred Wilson on to press for a further inquiry. He shrewdil advocated that Labour shook concentrate on the security aspect of the affair, rather than that of sexual morality, and that strategy served the party well With his wide ears, his beat nose and doleful face, Wigg was a cartoonist's delight. In Parliament he acted with courtesy for the greater part of the time, but be also bad his devastating outbursts, and then he was a master of invective.

He was also a master of parliamentary tactics. He had a delight in filibustering, he loved delight in biboustering, he loved to sabotage motions, and he knew how to create confusion with shouts of "Object!" or "I spy strangers!" He chained to hate Tories: "I hate their guts: I always have and I always shall"

When Labour returned to power in 1964 Wigg as Paymaster General was given responsibility for advising Wilson on security questions within No 10's ambit, as Wilson himself confirmed. But beyond that his official role escaped precise definition. What was clear was that he operated as Wilson's confidential aide on a wide range of issues; and no minister or civil servant was ever closeted with the Prime Minister so regularly or so long as Wigg.

Wigg's wide hrief to keep a watch on Labour MPs caused its frictions. as did his belief that his responsibility for security matters entitled him to a say in matters normally in the purview of the Defence Ministry. He was also bypersensitive, like Wilson himself, over leaks to the press, particulary on military matters, and that led to controversy over the D-notice system.

Wigg's interest in racing went back many years. From 1957 to 1961 he was a member of the Racecourse Betting Control Board, and from 1961 to 1964 of the Totalisator Board. When be moved to the Horserace Betting Levy Board in 1967, be made it clear that he was not going to be a mere figurehead, and he was outspoken on many occasions over the rules of the Jockey Club, which he regarded as too conservative. In racing as in politics, Wigg say himself as a spokesman for the ordinary man. He took the view that the existing system was too favourable to owners Profumo's association with was too favourable to owners Christine Keeler to the Labour and strainers, and that more leadership; who through the money should go such mallers evidence he had painstakingly as reduced admission charges and improved amenities. In 1973 he became president of the Betting Office Licensees' Association: In 1972 he published his autobiography

The first of four comics to with The Sunday Times) explore the roots of his humour the new series Comic Roots on BBC I. Michae Palin of the Monty Python team, traced its beginnings back to a father who used to place fake dog messes on the carpet shortly before guests were expected. Palin's sense of humour as a child was similarly basic. His best friend's parents recalled that his favourite job was to be a lavatory attendant, and that some of the Palin joined forces with Terry rhymes he made up were rather rude. His old geography master, who obviously hadn't heard them, remembered him as "a clever boy, quiet, not humorous really - but of course we didn't those days, did we? Travelling back to his ado-lescence in Sheffield, the point came across through reminscences with old friends of how accidental a comedian's career is. If he had not been invited to join an amateur dramatie group by a colleague at the steelworks he had gone into after failing his Cambridge interview . . . if he had not then gone to Oxford and struck up a comic partner-ship with Robert Hewison (now would he have realised his talent for this clusive art?

An interview with Spike Milligan, whose Goon Show was a revelation to the 11-yearold Palin, emphasized the point. Still starry-cycd after all those years. Palin asked how the Goons had been formed. "Just by chance," said Spike. "We had a good summer, that was what it was."

Jones for the first time at the Edinburgh Festival and critics wrote of "a new generation of satirists in the wake of Beyond the Fringe. On leaving Oxford, a tired Brideshead Revisited narrator intones over a scene of Palin gazing thoughtfully through a train window, "there was very little future for me in any respectable profession. I was one of that cursed generation doomed to take nothing seriously at all. As it turned out, to the good fotune of Monty Python devotees. Palin and his friends filled the gap left by their boyhood heroes, the Goons.

WEEKEND CHOICE

A Complex Heart (tomorrow, BBC 2, 8.10pm), an essay on Gustave Flaubert by Julian Barnes, embellished with lustrous pictures by the cam-eraman John Else, is all the better for its lively rejection of the academie approach. Flaubert the man is here as powerfully as Flaubert the writer. And so strongly is he here in Mr Barnes's commentary that, with all due respect to the actor Riehard Bebh who is got up to look like Flaubert and ennfides quotations to the camera to considerable dra-matic effect, Mr Barnes is really the only other living person whose presence on screen is indispensable.

If, as Mr Barnes assures us, Flaubert is the literary icon to which he has referred since he was 15, then he does not prostrate himself before his idol. Rather, he views the icon with a respectful, tronic eye ("Graham Greene has referred to the writer's need to have a chip of ice at the bottom of his heart. Sometimes. Flaubert seems to have a whole refrigerator down there."). And there is exercise of power. an irresistible final flourish in Mr Barnes's reminder that, on the site of the house where Madame Bovary was written, a paper factory now stands. Not, however, for making toilet

The 20th Century Remembered (tonight, BBC 2, 8.30pm) is the third - and, so far, the best - extract from Kenneth Harris's four-part interview with Dean Rusk, the former American Secretary of State. It could hardly bave been otherwise, for it takes in not only the Cuban missile crisis when we tottered on the brink of the Third World War (Mr Rusk puts it better when he talks about Washington and Moscow looking down the cannon's mouth and not liking what they saw), but also the assassio's bullet that ended the Kennedy "Camelot" years, and, above all, the Americans' involvement in Vietnam. Away from the scene of conflict, Mr Rusk talks interestingly about the world's debt to Britain for its pioneering work on the notions of liberty under law and the imposition of constitutional restraints on the day, the time soon after 8.30 pm and we had just switched on the car radio in an attempt to ease an endless journey down the length of the M4. We found ourselves in the opening min-ules of what was plainly a Salurday Night Theatre and one in which the early indications were unpromising.

The reasons for this soon took shape. The dialogue strove for sharpness and did not quite make it: actors, well aware of falling short, pushed their lines accordingly. The quality of the writing sounded even worse than it was. There emerged the outline of a rather forced story about a lady running a cordon bleu home catering service whose impact on the lives of her clients extended beyond the gastro-intestinal tract. I now see that the note of effortful desperation in the dialogue was occasioned by its attempt (like a pair of ill-inflated water-wings) to keep this none too buoyant frame afloat.

Certainly this, together with a marvellous sound treatment of passing trains, made for a superb evocation of a society fallen into tyranny and disrepair. Indeed its power may be judged from the fact that it survived an overly symbolic final scene in which a dissenter dressed as an old style lollipop lady (emblem of care for the young) hurled herself into the path of a train bearing unsus pecting black children to their

If anything were to happen to you, wouldn't it be reassuring to know your family was financially secure and well protected?

With the Ambassador Life Family Protection Plan. you could make sure they would be. It's a life assurance policy that's easy to afford and even easier to take out. In fact, you can arrange cover of up to £50,000 here and now by post. And depending on your age, it could cost as little as £6.93 a month. That's around 23p a day.

TO FIGHT INFLATION. YOUR COVER CAN GROW TO £95,000.

In real terms, £10.000 of conventional cover taken out in 1973 is only worth around £2,700 today.

Consequently, we've taken positive steps to help shield your Family Protection cover against inflation. Each year, your benefits and premium increase by 10% of the first year's amounts.

If you take out cover of £50,000 now, for instance. it will rise to £55.000 next year. And by the tenth year, it will have grown to £95.000. Yet, if you're 34 now.your premiums will only increase by 20p a week next year.

STRAIGHTFORWARD COVER. NO FRILLS.

Most insurance and financial experts agree that term assurance, which gives high cover for low premiums. is the most efficient way of protecting your family against your death.

It is the most straight forward form of life assurance. With no frills, no investment element and no costly hidden extras.

Also, your initial policy is for a ten-year period. And that gives you considerable flexibility. Because after ten years, your family needs may have changed. For instance, you might then have enough income to begin a combined life assurance and investment plan. However, like a lot of people, you may decide to continue with the simple high life cover you've already got.

And providing you're under 50 now, and accepted on our standard terms, we'll guarantee to cover you for at least a further 10 years.

We won't even ask for a medical. Naturally, your premiums for further periods will depend on your age at the start of each one. Remember that the tax man will help out with tax relief presently equivalent to 15% of your premiums. And, if you fall ill for six months or more, we'll waive your premiums from the sixth month of disablement until you are fit to return to your paid employment.

ended the account on a very subdued note as nervousness ahead of the United States money supply figures rekindled fears of higher US interest rates. This was despite the better performance seen in New York bond markets on Thursday.
The government broker took advantage of a mioor rally in gilt prices to issue a new tap stock, £800m at 10 per cent convertible in 1986, after the stock, £800m at 10 per cent convertible in 1986, after the market closed. Gilt dealers expressed surprise at the rate, suggesting that the Chancellor obviously expects the 10 per cent base rate to last for some time.

Speculation is mounting on where Associated British Foods is going to spend the £200m it raised by selling off its South African interests. Mr Garfield Weston, the chairman, had told analysis that the no poaching approximately have a reconstruct the in said to have intuition. Contrary market view, his holding com-pany, Newarthill, does not look like bidding for Whessoe, the engineers, where a 16.5 per cent stake has been built up.

Newarthill has no record of takeover bids, but the 9.5 per cent stake held in UBM, at present under fire from Norcros, will make Newarthill £6.7m at the present bid price. So if that form is anything to go by, someone else may be stalking Whessoe.

The reason for the increase in the share price of Prince of days became apparent yesterday when it announced a big hotel acquisition from Epicure, which takes and 8.3 per cent stake in return. The shares lost 5p of the recent gain and closed at 118p.

A bumper set of figures from Prestige, plus an extraordinary dividend payment, did wonders for the share price which soared 41p to 230p. A well-kept secret.

A newsletter plug for TACE put another 14p on to the shares at 128p, while Lenaons firmed a few pence to 40p on the same

Saturday it will be for their 256th festival. In 1902 an eminent musician said: "It seems like adding stone after sione upon a great monument when we attend the Three Choirs Festival year after year". Eighty-one years later, is the monument in danger of toppling over from the sheer weight of its history?

John Sanders, on whom as organist of Gloucester Cathedral the task of planning this year's festival and conducting many of its concerts falls, is sure that the Three Choirs still has a unique place among British festivals: "It's not just that we have such a strong tradition. We have a very special character, being devoted to the performance of choral music. And there's no festival, I think, among all those that have started in the years since the war, that has that emphasis.

We have a strong amateur iovolvement in our musicthree cathedral choirs there is the festival chorus, which is not professional body and rehearses locally. And we manage to avoid the sort of generalized programmes which could be heard anywhere. We are very proud of our record in commissioning new choral works -indeed, if it was not for us, I think new large-scale works for chorus and orchestra would hardly get written these days."

This year's programme is no exception in including a healthy batch of works that will be heard for the first time: the festival has commissioned the completion of a symphony by Elis Pehkonen, (begun for the Stroud Festival); an organ-concerto from Charles Camilleri; an anthem from Richard Shephari (a former Gloucester choirboy); and most ambiti- the choirs, S. S. Wesley played ously, a large-scale Mass setting from Paul Patterson, Missa

Patterson explains: "I did have to tailor my writing very much to the amateur resources available, and I was careful to see that everything I wrote for the choir was practical to sing. I think they had emoyed my Voices of Sleep at the Proms. but they were surprised when I showed them the score to see all the curious notation with boxes and wiggly lines and so on. This new Mass is in a rather different style - not tonal, though it does use a lot of tonal elements. "I have worked with Tim Rose Price who lives near Gloucester in Painswick, and he only the last movement was has selected texts from the Bible done. which use the image of water - I have woven these into the Mass century the staple diet of the setting rather as Britten juxta-festival consisted of Mendelsetting rather as Britten juxtaposed the Wilfrid Owen poerry

the world, the separation of the water from the earth, then God seeing the flaws in man and the violent episode of the flood. Towards the end Christ's words about making his apostles into fishers of men are used - and around all these the Latin texts of the Mass can be heard.".

Was Patterson very conscious of the Three Choirs tradition when writing the piece? "Oh yes, and of the special acoustics of the cathedral where it will be sung. I did try to make the piece practical and traditional - but also adventurous, like the festival It's funny, because they are all steeped in Elgar and Finzi and Ivor Gurney there, but they will also take the trouble to rehearse something new, and audiences will come and hear it. There is a wonderful festival spirit, however old-fashioned some of it is. and hundreds of people will go there for the whole week and listen to absolutely everything and go to all the social events as

All this is a far cry from the tradition-bound "meetings" of the Three Choirs of the nineteenth century. Then, controversy raged as to whether oratorios ought to be allowed in the cathedrals, or whether only liturgical music should be heard. The festival depended on the financial support of the local landed gentry - they became "stewards" of the lestival, a term which survives today, when stewards are holders of subscription tickets - and in 1875 the Earl of Dudley offered the chapter of Worcester the huge sum of £10,000 if they would forbid the choirs to use the cathedral for their meeting.

HE arguments were conducted in words, music and. when one cleric preached sermon against on the organ the "Dead March" from Handel's Saul by way of commentary, and the Birming-ham Town Crier published a poem complaining that the festival was "persecuted by pries, Puritans and parsons/Choked by a highly Christian chapter". There were some difficult moments in those days, John Sanders recalls. "Even in this century, many clerics thought that Elear's Dream of Gerontius was too Catholic a work to be performed, though it is now one of our most regular pieces. And the first movements of Vanghan Williams's Sea Symphony, which we are doing this year, were also thought too secular -

For a long time even in this was particularly associated with the festival. "He knew exactly what he wanted in rehearsal, behaviour for him - I remember lots of details about how he blew over. wanted the works done, and it's interesting how the conductors today change things like em-phasis and tempo marks." Criticism has often swirled around the festival for its unwillingness to change its wellestablished traditions - not least from this newspaper, which declared in a leading article in 1925 that the cathedral organist should not automatically conduct all the festival concerts, and should confine himself to Elijah or Messiah. That tradition persists, though there are an increasing number of guest conductors for the orchestral concerts (which this year inchide Mahler's Tenth Sym- (1825), Crotch's Palestine which asked whether the Three replaced or retired for the musical health of the country?"

Voices were raised at the festival committee to suggest free press tickets, but the crisis

val has mixed the new with the old in a remarkable way well suited to the inevitably country-based, middle-class nature of its audience. It has had its bad luck with new works: Gloucester's last choral com-mission, Malcolm Williamsoo's Mass of Christ the King, was not orchestrated in time and had to be performed incomplete. Perhaps some of the recently heard works will go the way of Clarke-

During this period there was a strong continuity in the festival through Percy Hull, organist at Hereford from 1918, and Herbert Sumison at Gloucester from 1928: Sumison retired only in 1967 and still lives nearby. Younger conductors, such as David Willcocks at Worcester and Meredith Davies at Hereford, came after the war and stayed for briefer periods, but John Sanders, who succeeded Sumisoo at Gloucester, has remained there since 1968. Alice Sumison, wife of Dr Sumison, recalls: "The music because of the wider range of activities and the spread of business spousorship." Still, the festival seems to act as a social magnet around the cathedral towns, and the post-concert receptions, formal garden parties and teas loom large in the calendar. The ladies' committee organizes auctions, draws, musical evenings and — sign of the times — a Sponsored Knit-In. Perhaps the Three Choirs Festival is bound by tradition, but it is also acutely aware of the need for change. I could find oo one who regretted the loss of those Messiahs and Elijahs: everyone wants to explore the ocw, as long as it is oot too unfamiliar. Io its peculiar way, firmly based on amateur and religious roots, reluctantly anxious to keep up with the times but deeply attached to the past, the Three Choirs Festival represents the essence of British music-making that has characterized our music from Byrd, to Purcell, to Elgar himself. The party was about 20 strong. Each family had chosen villa from the Meon brochure at home. From the outside the villas of the Algarve look as though they had built from the same pattern book with the same white rendering and terra cotta roof tiles. But on the inside all manner of British tastes had left their mark. One was a twentyfirst century hideaway in peagreen plastic and chrome. Another was pure Surbiton à la Portugaise with close Wilton carpeting and striped regency drapes covering up all those terrible hard tiled floors and rough stone walls. TRAVEL/2 Flinty charms of feudal Sussex

This year, given the surfeit of Frenchmen in France, we took our summer break in England. in what Common Market people call "Le Sousex". An amiable week of going to the beach", climbing historic towers, eating micro-waved lasagne verdi in pub gardens, walking the outer fringes of the Glynde Reach, cream teas, fish and chips (oew potatoes still too soggy). Harvey's quenching bitters, all interspersed with bouts of potty-training. Our cottage was near Glynde-bourne in East Sussex. I'm not sure if occasional manifestatinns of local pride reflect the two wings of that county. Certainly, the East was for Parliament in the Civil War, while the West's feudal estates sided with Charles. And the East has the university, the pavilino at Brighton, Denis Healey at Alfriston, Jim Callaghan at Uckfield, the Ashdown Forest and Beachy Head, the Newhaven ferry, and, minor matter, the spot where King Harold received one in the eye. The West has Bognor.

It was, even in Sussex, the most gasping August since Galileo invented the thermometer. I lay on a lawn riven with droughty crevasses, my feet in the paddling pool, reading C. L. R. James on why cricket is an art, while my ear heard England slump once again to the Third World New Zealanders. No London papers, no television, only a wireless for the weather report. Lazy days in the sun seem to last longer than Intercontinental Navigation is offering some of the lowest charter fares to Los Angeles. Flights operate from Gatwick using British Airtours and there are regular departures. Seats are available from mid-September onward. The return fare is £350 falling to £330 in October. You must book at least 21 days

On its flights to Denver, Tampa and Miami, Arrow Air is offering stand-by fares which can be confirmed within eight days of travel. The price to all three destinations is £149 one-

US flight specialist Jetsave is marketing return consolidation fares with British Caledonian to gateways in the "Sunbelt." These are cheaper than the APEX fares but yoo must still book 21 days ahead. There are regular departures from Gat-wick. Sample high season prices are: Atlanta/St. Louis £370, Dallas £380, and Houston £390. From mid-September these fall to £310, £330 and £340

London-based Bestways is selling group departure fares to a selection of African destinations at less than APEX prices. These special fares are available to individuals, they can be bought at any time and you must stay away anything from between 14 and 30 days. Prices vary depending oo the airline and

Typical return fares for travel in August are: Jo burg £530 to £620; Durban £670; Harare £535; Lusaka £535 to £580; Dar-es-Salaam £420 to £465; Kilamanjaro £450; Nairobi £325 to £450; Mombasa £430.

Latin America Because far fewer people are travelling across the Sooth Atlantic, the airlines are trying to encourage traffic by whatever means they can. The present consolidation fares valid for stays of between 10 and 35 days already offer savings of over 60 per cent oo normal rates.

Typical return fares quoted London-based Steamond by London-based Steamond are: Rin de Janeiro £580, San Panin £590, Santiago £743 and Buenos Aires £760. But I am told these are still nut low enough to stimulate the market so expect prices to fall further still in the weeks ahead.

of acquaintances from the Chinese mainland that we headed for Leicester Square and the Man Fu Kung. The contrast with Choy's could hardly be mnre marked. Man Fu Kung claims to be the largest Chinese restaurant in Britain, and is chiefly patronized by large and noisy Chinese families. The lunch-time dim sum (steamed specialities served from bamboo baskets) is highly regarded in Sohn and good value, if you can find a table. For dinner, reservations will be required after 10.30pm when a Cantonese pop singer takes to the stage. This was a sophistication which we chose to decline.

Once again, we began with cold hors d'oeuvres, at £6 a third more expensive than Chny's and half as good. The ham looked as if it had come straight from the supermarket and a vile green peppermint cherry topped the bland chicken breast. Things looked up with the arrival of the braised poodles, cooked in a straw mushroom stock, and the fried stuffed bean curd was excellent, swimming in a sauce of gartic ginger, spring onioo and red

The deep-fried hnney chicken was pleasant enough, though the honey added little to the dish, and it seemed to me that what was supposed to be plum sauce had more to dn with a bottle of Lea & Perrins. Ying Yeung prawns - supposedly a contrasting hot and cold dish - had a hint of curry on one side and sweet and sour on the other and had to be prised nut of a reluctant kitchen.

With an uninspiring bottle of Macon Villages and two aperitifs the bill totalled £35. Man Fu Kung's menu is much more extensive than must Chinese restaurants, Choy's included. Impressive as the food usually is, the impersonal service and lackiustre atmosphere make cating there something less than an occasion. In that sense, authenticity is something we should seek on menus alone.

Out goes galley slavery, in comes home comfort

Below decks in a modern yacht which is intended for comfort, there is much scope for ingenuity of design. All the facilities we have at home, and more, must be specially contrived and crammed into small irregular spaces so that they work reliably in a severely corrosive environment. Among the essentials for creature comfort are cabin heeting, ventilation, sewerage, storage of drinking water, electrical power, lighting, cooking fuel, food storage, and even a

Such services are provided with varying degrees of technical complication, depending upon the size of the boat. The largest yachts will go as far as full air-conditioning end desalination plant, whereas the smallest will make do with a jerrycan of tap water and a single-hurner Primus stove. In between, the average family yacht about 10m in length enjoys increasing ingenuity of design, with modern materials and techniques to provide convenient and efficient living in a limited space.

Leaving aside the endless technicalities of the engine and navigation areas, here are a few items selected for their purposeful design suited to the needs of a medium-sized yacht.

Rapid inflation

Away from the marina, time spent at a quiet anchorage can be id:llic. But a trip to the shore used to be marred by the thought of the chore of taking the inflatable dinghy from its locker and blowing it up with a footpump All that has been changed radically by the quite remarkable 12-volt Hurricane seconds. Captive coldness

Refrigeration is a problem in all but the larger yachts. Electrical supply is limited when the engine is silent, and although there are numerous small, irregular shaped storage spaces, there are no convenient large spaces in which to put a less it was planned when the boat was built.

The Frigoboai solution is to distribute the machinery in convenient places, requiring unly a large evaporator plate to be housed in any suitable insulated compartment (or indeed, in more than one). A small compressor holied to the engine is driven directly by a hazardous than gas, end more belt. On average, less than 30 easily stored and measured. Sunpowered breeze

 Solavent is an extractor fan driven entirely by sunlight. It is not something to keep you noticeably cool, but in good daylight it will change the air in a typical boal cabin inside 15 minutes. It has completely maintenance-free motor and bearings, and with its solar cells to provide the power, it is completely self contained.

The makers claim it is proof against sea or rainwater, even when placed horizontally. But a "deadlight" can be provided to plug it off in the event of heavy seas. This is a new and promising British product. It will be interesting to see bow it stands the test of time. From Solar Ventilation, 248 Weyhill Road, Andover Hampshire (0264 58822). Price £29.95 direct (inc p&p).

Rotating telly

The more gentle cruising folk, who like to keep up their quota of television when the day's sail is over, have a particular problem. A boar at moorings may swing gently and never stay long facing in one direction. So the normal, highly directional type of television antenna won't serve. This mushroom form of design from Mohawk accepts signals from any direction and has an in-built booster amplifier. It works on any supply hetween 12 and 32 volts dc. and has a special filter to prevent interference from the boat's VHF radio telephone. It's a bit pricey at £57: available from Greenham Marine, Ringwood, Hampshire (04254 79064).

Alsace wines have nipped up in price noticeably over the last year or two and have worked themselves out of the everyday drinking category. But at the same time the humble Alsace Hugel Pinot Blanc wines have improved tremendously and Dominic's have an excellent '81 Hugel Pinot Blanc with a strong fruity nose and equally strong fruity taste: priced at £3.05 it is an easy wine to knock back on hot days. Considerably more expensive but worth it is Dominic's delicious rich, golden. smoky Hautes Coles de Nuils Cuvée Bevy '78 (£4.89). This fine white hurgundy from Geisweiler is full-flavoured enough to take on most rich strong foods - odd perhaps as this '78 is the product of new vineyards. Years of blowing hot and cold

The term "cold war" is too often an excuse for airing sloppy and subjective views on East-West relations. Fred Halliday's stimulating attempt to analyse the causes of US-Soviet conflict sioce 1945 skilfully avoids reducing complicated inter-national problems to a crude allocation of blame in the manner of partisan apologists for the superpowers. Indeed, Mr Halliday approves of neither the United States our the USSR. He finds Washington, however, the more at fault for "making the Second Cold War" which, he says, began in 1979 after a decade of detente; these two phases were preceded by the First Cold War (1945-1953) which gave way to a period of "oscillatory antagonism" in which crises alternated with attempts to lessen confron-tation. Do Mr Halliday's four phases really clarify trends? The death of Stalin in 1953 was indeed a turning-point, but the

New 'realism' bites the dust

This is Bill Buford's eighth issue of the resurrected Cambridge magazine and the second to be produced in conjunction with Penguin. The venture is impressive for its energy and for its earnest determination to keep its finger on the pulse of literary life. Buford combines seriousness of approach with marketing flair and, even if the result is somewhat pricey, it will at least ensure that Granta's profile floats some way above the competing literary mags.

But dirty? Realism? The use of either of those words is risky, the use of both is asking for trouble. The genre in question arises from America and seems to focus primarily on the short story. With characteristic confidence Buford contrasts it with the works of Mailer, Bello, Barth, Gaddis, Pynchon, Updike and Styroo and appears to overturn the lot in favour of DR. But what about Cheever? No mention of the American short story can be completed without incorporating his massive achievement. And, more to the point, the case is not proved by the contents of Granta 8.

The characteristic tone of the school is flat, unseasoned narrative. Each author appears to put some effort into avoiding comment. The language is thin, generally unassociative and clearly intended to be returned to its denotive functions, stripped of its more unruly twentieth-century accretions. All too often, however, the mask slips: "When they did find him ('they' meaning people in uniforms)". Here Jayne Anne

Phillips's coy parenthesis betrays her, objectivity reveals itself for what it is, an

unacknowledged subjectivity and the realism crumbles, before its always victorious enemy - selectivity.

A further give-away is Buford's use of the word "haunting" to define the effects of the tales. Instantly it puts us back on to the old expressive treadmill of fiction, to language as a transparency through which meaning is discerned.

It is a species of atavism, of impanence with the head-clutchings of modernism and a rushing into the arms of that most deadly doctrine - post-modernism. Some are better than others - Raymond Carver and Tobias Wolff seem to claim some higher ground but dirt and realism seem to get the better of the rest.

Outside the school, this editioo includes a tortured but efficient enough struggling with conscience over El Salvador by Carolyn Forche, Angela Carter on her father, a dreadful piece of overwrought "oew journa-lism" from Michael Herr and a story by Todd McEwen. It is a robust and educative selection which served its fuoction of getting at least this reader off the tence to shout the odds.

Launched in the tradition of Gainsborough

While the Loodon auction he goes to Central to begin work houses sleep through the sum-mer, Christie's are filling their printing. King Street rooms with an exhibition of works by degree students from the seven London state colleges of art. Almost 300 paintings, prints and sculptures come from Camberwell, Central, Chelsea, St Martins and the Slade colleges, the Royal College of Art and the Royal Academy Schools. All are for sale, the prices ranging from £30 to £3.500.

James Christie, who founded the company in 1766, provided exhibition space for contemporary artists. Paintings by Gainsborough and Sir Joshua Reynolds hung amid grand furnishings, chaises, warming-pans and other items to be auctioned. Last year Paul Whitfield, managing director of Christie's, revived the tradition to give students a free launching pad in the West End.

This year's show is bigger. bigger paintings, bigger sculp-tures and more of both. One of the larger paintings is Trevor Fitzory Landell's Structure of Kew, painted in intense hues and measuring 6ft 6in x 5ft 6in. Mr Landell is graduating from Camberwell in Fine Art Painting and Printing. In September

Registration of insurance

This pronouncement by Mr Dickie Alexander, contained in the annual report of the British Insurance Brokers Association of which he is chairman, must have a decidedly hollow ring in the ears of Signal Life investors. Gihraltar-based Signal

Life failed a year ago owing investors more than £6.5m. Signal Life bonds were sold in this country hy intermediaries, many of whom were Registered Insurance Brokers and members of BIBA, and many of whom failed to point ont to their clients the elementary fact that investments in offshore insurance companies would not be covered by the Policybolders Protection

One wonders what "cvidence of expertise" these brokers produced before heing allowed to register as an insurance broker. Investors in Signal Life's gold bond fund have been fully reimbursed by the fund's trustee, Hongkong and Shanghai Bank which acted with commendable speed in fulfilling its obligations to policyholders. But the gilt bond fund had no trustee - a point on which many investors were misinformed by their insurance broker - and these people have lost everything. For these unfortunates their only hope of compen-

Freeports' red herring

Freeports may or may not be a nseful way to encourage economic growth in the United Kingdom hut their case has not been helped by a study published yesterday hy the Adam Smith Insti-

Its booklet, published yesterday, discusses the case for and against freeports hut the arguments both for and against are undermined by a case study of the freeport which was set up a few years ago in Miami and has subsequently flourished.

The appraisal of the Miami experiment suffered in large part because of the resemblance it hears to the publicity handonts which the Miami authorities are all too eager to thrust into the hands of any who are willing to receive them. The lesson of Miami, which the Adam Smith Institute ought legitimately to have pointed ont, is not that its freeport has been successful, but rather that if the conditions for growth exist then the freeport can act as a focus. In other words, Miami was ripe for growth anyway. It is the place where the developing Latin American economies meet the monies of the Carribean, and the wealth and power of the United With Washington looking south for the first time, Miami was bound to hecome more important, and the city is awash with cash

The same can not he said for Felixtowe, or Prestwick, or the airport at Aberdeen. All can make a strong case in British terms for having freeports status. But we have to decide what will work here, not what has worked in a different climate overseas.

Insurance

Play safe: keep the company's key operator under cover

The death or injury of a key executive can be just as devastating to a company as a while companies scrupulously insure their executive's desk, only around 5 per cent bother to insure the top men themselves.

Statistically, a business can expect to be damaged by fire once every 275 years. By contrast a male over 45 has a one-in-faur chance of dying before 65. No company would dream of nperaug without fire cover, but all too many gamble with their human resources.

This narrow-mindedness can he disastrous, and the smaller the company, or partnership, the harder the loss of its driving force is going to hit.

With a weller of companies starting up. This is an area that should not be ignnred.

Take a faur-man computer software enmpany, Staff ennsists of two boffins, a salesman and financial director. At first all goes well, the product sells, new ideas are in the pipeline and cash in the bank,

Suddenly, the salesman dies. Belajedly, the importance of his lev role sinks in but the other pariners have no sales leads or knowledge of selling and the company slides down the wellworn slope to receivership.

Rey-man insurance cover nn each of the partners would have ensured a ready income until a replacement was appointed. Say the salesman had been 40 years old, the company could have bought £200,000 worth of cover for a premium of around £64 a month.

Gibraltar-based Signal Life failed last year and iovestors in the gilt bond. from Chartered Insurance Services have lost everything.

But Standard Chartered Bank confirmed yesterday that it is pursuing the matter with its professional indemnity insurers: and with only £20,000 at stake (each investor had a £10,000 bood) it is unthinkable that Standard Chartered would see: its clients out of pocket if the claim against the insurer is unsuccessful.

Mr John Hoddell, managing director of Chartered Trust, said: "Irrespective of the legal position and without prejudice to the legal rights of the company, we are investigating the position that bondhalders find themselves in and we are looking very sympathetically at their claim."

This should strengthen SLIAG (Signal Life Investors Action Group) which is selecting test cases to bring court actions against the intermediaries who recommended the bond.

With Standard Chartered Bank likely to pay up, other intermediaries might also decide to compensate their clients for their losses on the gilt bond.

The pound's tradeweighted index, which measures overall competitiveness against the main trading partners, is higher than at the beginning of the year.

On the one hand, therefore, dollar interest rates look attractive to sterling investors. Interest rates of 9.75 per cent on seven-dry money and 10.25 per cent three-month deposits enjoy edge over their British an edge over

On the other hand, corrected for exchange rate movements, British investors would have done better at home over the last three months, earning almost 10 per cent oo three month money against less than half as much for the dollar.
Only a sharp depreciation of sterling against the dollar, or a widening of the interest rate differential, or a combination of the two, will alter the relation-ship in favour of sterling holders. While foreigners retain their faith in oil prices and British government policy there seems little chance of that happening. It might be safer to stay at home.

Here's an opportunity to join us in our bid to win the "Daily Telegraph" Unit Trust Managers' Competition, one of the highlights of the investment year.

Back in January, when Central Trustee Savings Bank, our Investment Managers, first entered the competition, they put their money on the TSB Extra Income and TSB Pacific Unit Trusts as the combination most likely to win.

And we're sure everyone who invested with us then must be smiling now.

Because these two trusts in combination are not only riding high in the Competition, but they've also achieved a total growth of 30% since January 1stgetting on for half as much again as the average among the other contestants.

But we're not just looking to December 31st this year. Looking further ahead, our Investment Managers firmly believe these two trusts offer excellent prospects for income and growth in the medium to long

So we believe you should make our choice your choice too. Moreover, we are offering extra units to all investors who take advantage of today's opportunity, before September 2nd 1983.

Because our investment team's choice for the Competition still is 40% Extra Income and 60% Pacific, we suggest you back the same combination.

The important thing to do is to return your Application Form before Friday, September 2nd.

What makes Extra Income work so well?

make it an extra

Launched in November 1982, the TSB Extra Income Unit Trust bas since become one of the most successful unit trusts in our group.

.With around £7 million invested in just nine months, Extra Income has, with income reinvested; achieved a capital growth of 35%. The current yield stands at 7.31%.

So, how will this trust perform in the future? Investing mainly in British equities, the trust concentrates on high yield 'recovery' stocks.

The Managers believe that, as the current upturn in world trade is sustained, those companies with slimmed down stocks and overheads should be able to produce dramatic improvements in their profits and dividends.

It is precisely this kind of company the Managers have looked for and invested in. At present their choice includes major firms in the metals, engineering and financial sectors. This kind of selection, which aims to improve our investors' income," should also continue to provide good prospects for capital growth in future *Estimated as at August 11th 1983

THE THINGS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW Investors will receive two Unit Certificates,

one for each Trust: For your guidance, the offer price for Accumulation Units in the TSB Extra Income Unit Trust on August 11th was 67.5p and the estimated gross yield was 7.31%. For Accumulation Units in the TSB Pacific Unit Trust the offer price on that day was 81.0p and the estimated gross yield was 0.49%.

The Managers of the TSS Extra Income-Unit Trust and the TSB Pacific Unit Trust are TSB Unit Trusts Limited who are members of the Unit Trust Association. The Investment Managers are Central Trustee Savings Bank Limited and the Trustee is General Accident

Fire and Life Assurance Corporation plc. Units in the Trusts may be bought and sold on any business day. Their prices and yields will be quoted in the Financial Times and may also be obtained from any branch of the TSB.

The initial management charge is 5%, out of which remuneration is paid to qualified intermediaries. (Rates are available on request.) A monthly management charge of 1/16th of 1% (plus VAT) of the value of the

You've always known the TSB as one of the big high

Indeed, the funds we manage at present lotal over £400 million, spread across eight different unit trusts. These trusts include the following: TSB American, TSB Extra Income TSB General, TSB Gilt & Fixed Interest, TSB Income, TSI ternational, TSB Pacific and TSB Selected Opportunities

What about the Pacific?

Investing primarily in Japan, with holdings in Hong Kong, Singapore, Malaysia and Australia, the TSB Pacific Unit Trust has always gone all out for long-term growth.

This policy has put this trust up in the top twenty of all trusts during the first seven months of this year."

In Japan, where over two-thirds of the trust is invested, inflation is still being held at around 2%.

Moreover, the Managers expect the revival of world trade to produce a strong recovery in Japanese equities, and the country's trade surplus is growing strongly as world-wide export opportunities increase.

of the TSB Group.
Its registered office is at Keens House, Andover, Hampshire SP10 1PG. The company is registered in England and Wales, number 1629925.

What does this combination offer?

Together, these two unit trusts offer an ideal investment combination. Extra Income offers a consistently high level of income, with some capital growth, designed to protect the value of your investment. Reinvestment of the income will have the effect of substantially enhancing the overall growth.

Pacific aims to achieve a high level of long-term capital appreciation. Moreover, both of them are managed by Central Trustee Savings Bank, whose investment management department is staffed by seasoned professionals whose sole responsibility is the management of investment funds. Total funds under CTSB's management exceed £700 million.

Invest with us today

If you want to share in the fortunes of the TSB's Competition Unit Trusts, invest with us today.

Bid talk echoes in Bowater forests

Like old soldiers, good rumours never die. For the better part of a decade the City bas been entertained spasmodi cally by the notion that somecone, somewhere, wants to take over Bowater, the paper maker. This particular tale appears to be enjoying renewed At the risk, however, of suggesting that there can be smoke without fire, the likelihood of a bid, or even of some party taking a sizable stake. seems small.

Close and nervous attention in the share register has not so far disclosed untoward movements, and, perhaps perversely the very persistence of the rumour tends in induce more rather than less scepticism. Nor can anything definite be gleaned from the share price, as the chart shows.

in the lnng-term, the disap-pearance of cheap re-insurance should be beneficial by pushing up marine rates, and not before

But sbort-term, insurers who have re-insured risks in what nnw look like dubious markets could find themselves nursing some bad debts.

Mr John Ginarlis, Quilter Goodison's insurance specialist. said recently that there are BOWATER SHARE PRICE rumours surrounding other well-known re-insurers.

The most important compopents of the Bermudan industry are the captive companies established by the multinationals for cheap insurance with tax benefits. But premium rates in the conventional insurance industry are now highly com-petitive, Bermudan costs have increased, and United States and British taxmen are challenging the tax benefits.

The big worry in Bermuda is whether multinational oil companies will stand by the captives as underwriting losses increase and reserve inadequacies are revealed which far surpass the original investment in the captive, Mr Ginarlis says. The big insurance brokers say they are becoming more selective in their choice of security: that is, placing business with the US and United Kingdom composite insurers at the expense of the fringe markets like Bermuda where premium income must deteriorate.

Most of the profit increase came from existing products in Britain. Demand for the full range - from kitchen knives to electric coffee percolators - has been firm, helped in part by the extraordinary resilient con-sumer boom. Overseas markets, while still profitable, have no:

been so buoyant. But Prestige has also ben-efited from determined attempts to improve efficiency and widen margins. Higher productivity, partly achieved by the time-honoured device of sack-ing workers, will stand the company in good stead when it launches some new products in the second balf of the year. These products are expected in include some of the more profitable electric gadgets.

The true strength of the company, however, can be seen m its financial positinn. While so many British companies are still labouring under high gearing Prestige is a net earner of interest. Its powerful cash flow means that after paying out some £7m for the extraordinary dividend the company could still have more cash at the end of the year than at the end nf 1982.

Given its conservative approach. Prestige is most unlikely to expand outside its traditional business. But that, nf course, does not rule out an acquisition.

The share price jumped 41p to 189p, but with profits of more than £7m in sight for the whole year, that seems to leave

Ault cuts dividend after loss By Philip Robinson

Ault & Wiborg Group, the London-based ink makers, yesterday cut its half-time dividend as it slid into the red.

On a turnover virtually unchanged at £31.6m, the group's trading profits dropped from £1.6m for the six months to the end of June to £795,000. Higher redundancy and interest costs pushed the pre-tax figures into a loss of £197,000 against a profit of £731,000 for the same period last year.

As a result, the interim pared wi dividend has been cut from the year.

Japan imports shock for UK

British exports to Japan were worth only 58.2 per cent of their 1981 value in the last financial year, a study from the Japanese Finance Ministry claims.

The ministry, working on its own import statistics for the year ending in March, says only oil-supplying Kuwait did worse, with 36.8 per cent.

The claim staggered British specialists. Mr David Morris, ao economist with the Londonbased Anglo-Japanese Econ-"We went back to inquire whether it was a printing error. hut they said it was correct". Japanese officials used US dollars for their comparison, and movements against the yen were thought partially respon-sible for declines by most

But Department of Trade and Industry specialists simply could oot believe Tokyo's

British sales to the end of March, at $1,578m bore to relation to reports from HM

> Sales in the first three months of this year dipped to £172m, but the 1.7 per cent decline was nothing near enough to bring about the massive decline claimed by Japan.

It was left to Mr Ron Howe head of the DoTI's Exports to Japan Unit, to solve the mystery of the missing millions. Japan's trade figures for the first three months of 1982 included purchases of $357m worth of monetary gold", he said yesterday. "In the same period this year, they were worth $93m.

"That one item declined by 74 per cent, sufficient to pull imports from the United Kingdom down 42 per cent (or to 58 per cent of their 1981 value).

Kuwait passes new stock exchange rules Kuwaii (AFP) - The Kuwaii

Parliament has approved legis-lation to resolve the crisis started a year ago by the crash of Kuwati's unofficial stock

The legislation had prompted Mr Abdel Latif Al-Hamad, the finance minister, to offer his resignation last Monday, al-though it has not been officially

The new legislation was adoted after a six-hour debate by 33 to 11 with five abstentions. It calls for the settlement of what remains of about $94bn in outstanding cheques at the time of the crash

The post-dated cheques, which had been used to purchace, shares oo the exchange, were in effect resold with boouses in the light of increases in the value of the shares expected in the oext few

The new law prscribes fines up to $17,000 for people convicted of trying to clude payment of their debts and other penaltics.

clearance. On his third failure at 2.06m Hingsen snatched irritably, with reason, at his track suit as the jury of 50,000 umbrellas peered at him with that knowing impassive stare.

After the heatwave, we had woken to low, grey, dense skies, yet the stadium was almost full and the rain just starting as the decathlon meo slotted into their blocks for the 100 metres, while breakfast was still being served in the posh hotels. The seeded fast men got down: Hingsen, jumpy, false-started. Doubts about Thompsoo's fitoess, eased as he came down the red ribboo of track looking tense but full of that customary bounding power. A time of 10.60sec, three metres up oo Hingsen, was only nine hundredths outside his best and Hingsen must have been disappointed with 10.95sec, well down oo his.

Over to the long jump pit, where both men excel. On his first attempt Thompson oo-jumps, frowns, and walks back with a shrug which says "don't worry, I'm all right". Hingsen's manages 7.75m, hut Thompsoo's accorded off a fine rhythmic run, is second, off a fine, rhythmic run, is

The shot-put should belong to Hingsen. On his first throw, Thompson selects a yellow ball from the choice of several, each of which weighs about as much as the suitcase your average tripper takes to Benidorm, and heaves it 15.35 metres only 10cm short of his best. He indulges in the furtive, smug look of a schoolboy who has scrawled a rude message oo the blackboard. Hingseo, each shoulder bigger than the shot oestling under his chin, frowns angrily when he can manage only 15.66 metres, against a best of 16.08m, and even more so when he fouls fractionally on a big second throw.

A marathon wait

The long wait for the British men narathon runners is over and the marathon runners is over and the long ran begins tomorrow. Pat Butcher writes. British officials should not have brought Hugh Jones, Mike Gratton and Gerry Helme out here at least four days Heline out here at least our days before it was necessary, their excuse being that the air flights (and fares) had already been arranged. Both Jones and Granton had specifically requested a late arrival, for they are particularly aware that their partnership with Helme forms the best British marathon trio to come to a major championship in the last 10

At the Montreal Olympics, there was no British finisher in the first 20. In Moscow, there was no British Ranking lists, especially in the marghon, are only a pointer to form, and more relevant than their ranking (Gratton is seventh in the world, Helme 11, Jones 18) is that Gration and Helme were first and second in the London Marathon in May, and that Jones was first in the Stockholm Marathon in June.

Cook's spin turns theory on its head Spinners twist the

By John Woodcock, Cricket Correspondent

The second day of the third Test match, sponsored by aiming at middle and off. From Cornhill, belonged to Nick the start Willis gave him the Cook, Leicestershire's slow leftlast moment when Edmonds's back let him down. Io 20 overs Cook took four for 28, the last three of them to 21 balls, bowling with excellent control and more subtlety as his confidence increased.

Cook's success made it a good day for cricket, not only for England. The extent to which modern captains believe, if they possibly can, that fast and medium-paced bowling are the answer to every contingency is shown in the fact that althoogh Gray was brought into the New Zealand side partly because of his orthodox left-arm spin, he bowled not a single over during England's innings.

So far, except during Cook's two spells, all the bowling has been done at medium pace or above, the ball banged in often pointlessly short. Last night, when Willis came back for a last over, five of the six balls he bowled never remotely threatened the stumps. They were all far too short for that. It has been a game, therefore, played in the LORD'S: New Zealand, with modern idiom. Cook struck a four first-innings wickets in blow for all who believe that, hand, are 150 runs behind the more stereotyped cricket becomes, the less charm it has.

He bowled round the wieket, arm spioner, who was brought fielders, an indicatioo also that toto the England side only at the thic ball will turn.

England's first inoings total, with New Zealand having to bat last, is already looking good and better by far than wheo New Zealand, with less than a hour to go, bad reached 147 for two. There are mutterings, as there usually are at Lord's, of a ridge at the Nursery Eod. For New Zealand, for one reason and another, it is going to be a difficult game to save.

Yesterday was hard fought and slow going. Cook gave it balance. The gates were closed at noon, a rare occurrence in this country agaiost New Zealand. It is a compliment to Howarth's side that the crowd became as involved, or nearly so, as if Australia had been playing. This, they have de-cided, is a match to be won. New Zealand have done enough damage to our rughy payers this summer without beating the cricketers, too. England lost their last five wickets for 47 runs in 20 overs. Of their batsmen left from overnight, only Gatting could have given the New Zealanders anything much to worry about, and he was out in the fourth over attempting, far too soon, to hook Hadlee. In all the circumstances it was a poor stroke, not least because Hadlee, even off his short run, is an awkward bowler to hook.

in attempting this stroke, Gatting got his percentages wrong. Having played so well on Thursday evening, he should have gone on now to make a hundred. Once he was out, at 288, the rest of the morning's play was dull. At any had his off stump removed by Hadlee; at 303 Foster was caught at the wieket; at 318 Smith, the wicket-keeper, made a very good diving catch to seed back Willis; and at 326 Cook was bowled by Chatfield. Although Fosteer and Cook showed they can bat a hit, England's is the sort of tail that may be made to look quite impossibly loog against West Indies pext summer. Taylor has a career average of 16, Cook of

Cook's tour de force: his first wicket for England on his way to four for 28

For the fifteenth tiroe in 43 Tests Hadlee took five wiekets in an innings. He is a prime example of the hostility that can be achieved even late in a fast bowler's career, through rhythm, liming and an sclion that has never been allowed to get sloppy. Howarth had half an bour's

so indication of how frangible

Howarth was iio for 50 minutes, playing well. When, at 49. Cook howled Howarth, Edgar had made 10 in 26 overs. It made a nice, comforting start for Cook. If his movement looked a little stiff, nerves could have had something to do with that. By the end of play his was easier. Poor Edmonds, he must have watched it all, if he did, with roixed

NORTHAMPTON: Northampton-shire (24 pts) beat Middlesex (5) by

Ironically for s side whose success this season has owed so much to spin, Middlesex looked less than comfortable when facing it themselves. Gifford played s major role in their only previous champsonship defeat, and yesterday their batsmen succumbed to the Northampton-saure spin amack.

The off-spinners, Williams and Willey, took four wickets apiece, as Middleser, were bowled out for 210,

102 to win. With Emburey the only spinner in the Middlesex team it proved a simple task and Nor-thamptonshire got home with 17 overs to spere.

It was a comprehensive defeat for tt was a comprehensive defeat for the championship leaders, whose batting has long been seen as e potential Achilles' heel. On this occasion, they were found wanting for the second time in the match. The chief exception was Dowton, now a far more accomplished wickerkeeper than in his England days, and he batted as well yesterday as I have ever seen him. He defended sensibly and hit the balt cleanly when it was over-pitched. Ellis, too, was much less neurotic cleany when it was over-planted. Ellis, too, was much less neurotic than his colleagues, who appeared quite unable to come to terms with e pitch which offered increasing turn

Significantly, Williams opened the bowling from one end. For 45 minutes Radley and Slack pro-gressed steadily, but when they had added 30 in the overnight total of 44, Williams dismissed Radley with one which bit rather more sharply to provide a straightforward catch to forward short lee

rward short leg. With 36 runs still needed for the lead, this was a setback Middlesex could have done without, and it could have done without, and it took oo a more serious complexion in the next over. Kapil Dev, whose knee injury restricted him to medium pace, removed Stack in one of the few spells by a seam bowler in the Middlesex innings, and exposed their fragile middle order to an arduous task.

They were not up to it as Cook rotated his three spinners skilfully, never allowing the batsmen to sette. Steele took the next wicket as Stetle took the next wicket as Middlesex compounded their own problems by becoming totally introverted. Emburey stayed 12 overs without scoring before playing a dramatically bad stroke to the first ball of Willey's first over of the day, heaving across the line to he bowled off his rath. Middleses had lost four.

off his pads. Middlesex had lost four wickets for 19 runs. That brought in Downton to joio Ellis with 16 runs still needed for the lead - or, put persimistically, to avoid an innings defeat - and for the first time since the opening overs, but met ball on equal terms as the two wrested some, if not all; the initiative away from the bowlers. Half an hour after lunch Willey ended the stand, beating Ellis's forward stroke, and although Neil Williams weighed in with some healthy blows, it became only a matter of time as the spinners worked their way through the lower order.

CANTERBURY: Surrey (21 pts) 60; with five overs it was only 25. beat Kent (6) by four wickets.
Two balls of left-arm spin, which were bowled by Curtis shortly after himch and whipped past Cowdrey's forward stroke, were enough to make him declare the Kenl innings at 12t for seven. Whatever expectations he had of Underwood er 120, E A B expectations he had of Underwood were never quite realized on a pitch rather too slow for him.

Survey, set to make 232 in three hours and a half, got off to a laborious start but the arrival of Lynch at 125 for three quieldy cooked Kent's goose. He hursled to 50 in a reason minutes by many of 50 in as many minutes by way of four huge sixes and three fours and Surrey scraped home with five balls to spare.

This brought in Lynch and an immediate change in perspective. He had scarcely taken guard before Johnson was lofted for two sixes and a four. Pauline continued to push forward and steer the occasional one past slip, reaching 50 in two hours and e half.

With 20 overs left Surrey needed 125. Lynch whirled two more sixes into the teacups, not really getting hold of either, and then lost Pauline, brilliantly taken at ship by Aslett.
Clarke, promoted above his station, prodded woodenly out at Underwood and was bowled second ball.
With 10 overs left, the target was Underwood became uncharacteristically generous with no-balls and Lynch, with Thomas and Richards each doing his bit, saw Surrey safely through.

Ellis holds key to cup

The outcome of the Creative Cup final, to be played at Borton Court, Chelsea, tomorrow could well depend upon whether Richard Ellis, the Middlesex bassman, is available to play for Haileybury Hermits. Ellis, the outstanding cricketer from the two sides, Haileybury and Repton Pilgrims, will probably not know until tomorrow morning if he will he needed by his county for their John needed by his county for their John Player league match.

Otherwise, Haileybury and Repton are well matched. Repton, who won the first final in 1967 – the competition, sponsored by Moet & Chandon, was devised for public schools old boys – include Richard Hutton, now a banker and aged 40, but still a useful cricketer, and John Carr, also of Middlesex, if he too is a good year in the Parks. Batting is indeed their strong point. Sir Anthony Tuke, President o MCC, will present the Moet & Chandon award on this delightful ground with its short boundaries. The prize for the winners is a day trip to Epernay, courtesy of the

Flair and fluster for joint leaders From Lewine Mair, Dublin

GOLF

When Severiano Ballesteros came in with a second successive 67 to share the lead with Bernhard Langer at the half-way stage of the Carrolls Irish Open al Royal Dublin he was told how the ball he uses - a Titleist tonr 384 - will not be allowed on The European tour after this week.

Ballesteros chuckled at a newspaper item which not only pointed out that the ball "stayed airborne longer than the rules permit" hut further suggested that it had won more than its fair share of ournaments in the United States in fact 11, including the Masters, the US Open and the PGA. "Okay" said the Spaniard

"Olay", said the Spaniard pointing to one notoriously erratic golfer among the press corps. "I will give you can win a major".

He said that e switch of ball would make no difference in him whatsoever. His reference to the fact that he could "play with a stone" was meant to be a joke, but, of course he was e dah hand et knocking pebbles around in his days knocking pebbles around in his days as a caddie. Ballesteros was playing yesterday

Ballesteros was playing yesterday alongside Mark James, a man whose problems in taking the cluh away on the backswing merely served to emphasise the Spaniard's flair.

Out in 32, against the par of 35, Ballesteros drew level with Langer, the first-round leader, when he caught the green at the 270-yard leth with his one-iron and got down in two putts for his hirdie, th his round of 64 on Thursday, Langer hit so many of his irons directly at the flag, but yesterday found himself flag, but yesterday found himself knocking them first right and then

He could not make up his mind what he was doing wrong, but was glad that his early starting time had left him with plenty of time in which to get things right. Last seen, he had a whole bag of practice balls emptied out on the putting green – a sideshow which, in view of his troubles on the greens, almost inevitably drew • gathering of ghouls.

Though Graham Marsh took three putts of the last, the way in which he has arrived on the leader board is worthy of note. Four over par for his first nine holes of this championship, Marsh was 11 under par for his last 27 holes.

Glorious victory for Hants By Richard Streetoo

EASTBOURNE: Hampshire (23 pts) beat Sussex (5) by three wickets. by Hampshire with one ball to by Hampshire with one ball to spare. Cowley won the game when he struck Reeve for four past extra cover. The ball, travelling at great speed, brushed Pigott's outstretched hand as he dived despairingly to bring the final drama to an extraordinacy finish. Hampshire, needing 283 in 185 minutes, owned much in Terry who shouldered the hurden of leading the run chase with great maturity.

A splendidly contested game swung in favour of each team in turn is the end. Hampshire's win enabled them to stay in the championship table's upper regions. For Sussex, who have not won a three-day match for two months, success on the Glorious Twelfth remained as elusive as grouse promised to be. Their bowling hero was Waller, who bowled with skill on a turning pitch end caused Hempshire concern throughout the last 20 overs.

When Terry drove a low return catch to Waller, Hampshire still required 27 from 22 balls with three wickets left. The target shrunk to 15 wickets left. The larget shrunk to 15 from 12 balls when Cowley took a single against Waller, and Tremlett pulled and drove three twos and a four from the rest of the over. With four wanted from the last over, Pigott was replaced by Reeve. Singles came from the third and fourth balls before Cowley's final blow.

Earlier Hampshire began spiritedly, with Greenidge ensuring that the necessary average of five runs an over was maintained. When Greenidge was bowled as soon as Colin Wells joined the attack – he tried to on-drive crookedly – Jesty toc!. on the main aggressor's role. Jesty was out when he mistimed o drive and Imrun at cover held the first of three spectacular eatches he were on a crest at Newbury yesterday when they joined forces to win both the Hongerford Stakes and the Washington Singer Stakes, the two maio races at stake there with Salieri and Trojan Fen. Bouncing back toto the sort of form that saw him finish second to Gorytus at York last summer and then win the Mill Reef Stakes at Newbury Salieri won the Hungerford Stakes decisively by two and a half lengths from the 1,000 Guineas runner-up, Royal Heroine.

The bitter disappointment of the race was the hot favourite. Horage, who finished down the field after leading for about five furlongs. He was always on the wrong leg and not the same horse that I rode to win at Royal Ascot" was a disappointed Steve Cauthen's explanation afterwards.

While Horze was beating a loot forward for the first time this scason. He came sweeping through his field in the straight to win with the minimum of fuss. Afterwards Cecil had no firm plans for the er, but he did say that Diesis who has always been regarded as his superior at home could begin his comeback proper in the Kiverton Park Stakes at Doncaster next Less good news of their stable companion, Dunbeith, though. The horse who won both the Royal Lodge Stakes and the William Hill Futerity last year and was on the strength of those victories once favourite for this year's Derby will not true again. Henry Cecil and Lester Piggott day that Dunbeath's half sister, Khwlah, made a acuccessful start to her career by winning the Sparsholt Stakes.

Trojan Fen duely kept his unbeaten record intact when he woo the Washington Singer Stakes to the understandable delight of not only his trainer but also his wife, lalie. That supremely accomplished horsewoman has ridden Trojan Fen day in and day our at Newmarket ever since he was broken and thereby beloed to make him.

The ease with which Trojan Fen put paid to his three rivals yesterday put paid to his three rivals yesterday simply underlined Cocil's strength in that department even though Milbow was beaten at Netwcastle earlier in the week. Defecting Dancer (Prix Morny), Precocious (Gimerack Stakes), Prickle (Lowther Stakes), and Vacarine (Mill Reef Stakes) were the plans that Cecil outlined for his other leading two-year-olds yesterday.

Otherwise the afternoon belonged Otherwise the afternoon belonged to Pat Eddery who rode a double on Prego and Dancing Affair. Eddery's handling of Prego in the Esal Credit handleap was arguably the coolest bit of race riding seen all season. "I told him to ride Prego like a non trier and he carried out my instructions to the letter," was the arry Hills's compliment to Eddery afterwards.

Cauthen did not ride Prego because Eddery was engaged when it appeared that he would not be able to do the weight at the four day forfeit stage. Khairpour youngsters

YAWA and Castle Rising, two likely contenders for this year's St Leger, will meet for the second time this season in the Geoffrey Freer Stakes at Newbury today. The first occasion was in the Grand Prix de Paris at Longchamp towards the end of June when Yawa won to give Geoff Lewis his greatest success as a trainer. Castle Rising finished only The distance between them was

Final try at Locko

By Jenny MacArthur

Ginny Strawson, the champion young rider of Europe, is still ecovering from a fall she suffered a ferrought ago, and is likely to miss the cross-country phase of the Midland Bank horse trials championships of Britain, which begin today at Locko Park in Derbyshire, the home of Captaio Patrick Drury-Lowe.

Locko, the richest event of its kind in Britain (the first prize is £1,000), is the final trial for the

£1,000), is the final trial for the riders hoping to make the team of six for the European Young Riders' championships, which take place at Burghley from September 7 to 11.

Miss Strawson dislocated bershoulder when she fell from a young horse, and although she is mending rapidly, it is unlikely that she will be fit enough to compete in Sunday's cross-country phase. It has been an unlucky year for Miss Strawson, whose two advanced horses, Sparrowhawk and Minsmore, were both unable to compete at oth unable to compete at Badminton. Sparrowhawk cracked a hip joint when rolling in the stable and Minamore, on whom Miss Surawson became the European champion, has had a splint.

However, Miss Strawson had a good outing with both of them at Holter Hall just before her fall, and all being well, she will take them to Castle Ashby oext week.

Although Locko is without the ist riders representing Britain in the European championships in Switzerland next week, there will be no shortage of competition. Among the young riders those likely to be in the ribbous are Jonquil Sainsbury oo Mr Moon, Karen Straker on Runnning Bear, the reigning junior European champion, and Anne-Marie Taylor with Gin And Orange. British riders filled four of the first five places at the Falsterbo three-day event in Sweden. The winner was Richard Walker, riding Mrs Birchall's Globetrotter, and he also took fifth place on Mr Birchall's Accumulator. It was a well descrived result for Walker, who has had his fair share of bad luck this season be misses today's horse trials at Locko Park because his two advanced horses, Ryan's Son and Waterburn are injured.

Captain Mark Phillips had a successful outing on the Range Rover Team's Elizzard II to finish Evens Pordel, 3 Grafty Green, 5 Blood Orange, 8 Deep Ice.

Modern athletics: the mysteries and the manipulations

Blood and intrigue on the tracks

athletics is the one pure and simple sport most gentle of gentlemen, hurdling fallen race as him, while Coe and Ovett have a left, a simple matter of running faster or runners and charging about with a boot long and noble tradition of never quite chucking odd bit of metal further than the other chaps, cannot have failed to notice that athletics has come of age this season. Money, readily comprehensible nastiness, and utterly bailling jargon now rule.

Which reminds me: you must understand that I do not intend to write at my hest today, for I am on a scientifically devised schedule which will enable me to peak in time to write an absolute blinder on the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe in the

This, by the way, is a borse race, and, as such celebrated gentlemen as Piggott, Cauthen, Carson and Cook could all tell you, if you are considered to have transgressed the rules of racing by interfering, however unfortunately, with the other runners, then the weight of the law falls upon you.

But all these win-hungry jockeys would be considered absolute angels, almost as angelic as Britain's own Saint Sebastian. that long-time sufferer from the arrows of outrageous fortune, were they to employ similar factics to those that brought about their recent suspensions in the sport of toot racing. Running has become so, ah, competitive that up-to-date coaching films will have to be marketed as viden nastics.

full of blood, a veritable emblem of athletics today, for all that he is a man who knows in his heart that in such cases it is more blessed to give than to receive.

And that brings us to the tale of Nick Rose; Oh Rose, thou art sick as a parrot after the Helsinki final of the 10,000 metres, a race he described as a dog fight.
"It was that so and so Kedir," he is reported to have said, rather temperately I thought, afterwards. "At one stage I raised fist at him and swore".

When athletics is not about blood-en-crusted spikes and men with elbow-likefire it is concerned with incomprehensible ailments. Athlete after athlete reports such problems as wrenched fetlocks, bruised stifles, and poor old Seb seems to have been bitten by a lymph. For my money, the athletics picture of the year is of Ovett vanking bis shorts up round his waist in order to investigate his latest injury:

At one time the point of athletics was to settle the argument about who is the best: now the sport is a contest to discover who can juggle his schedule the best, so as to compete in the maximum number of races without coming across anyone who might beat him. Cram yelped with public anguish and told us how wrong it was for

Those of us who had thought that Which brings us to Steve Ovett, that Ovett to think about running in the same appearing on the same track at the same

> There has to be a logical reason for this curious state of affairs, in which our prime stock is never seriously tested against itself. We all know that there is now money to be earned in athletics, but mere cash for running cannot be the whole story. Take Golden Fleece.

> Golden Fleece won the Derby in 1982 and there and then, at the tender age of three, his racing career ended. Never again did he risk getting beaten. Were his connexions simply content with the prize money they had collected from the Derby? Reader, they were not. Prize money is but loose change compared to the money that can be earned once a racing career is over.

Why then sould our leading athletes risk running against each other, when there is so much bope for the future at stake? For cash earned by running must be a mere pleasant bonus to collect along the way, when you consider the earnings potential of our brave boys when their running days are over. Just think what they would be able to earn at stud.

Law Report August 13 1983

Wrong test applied to infested dates

Before Sir John Donaldson, Master of the Rolls, Lord Justice Oliver and Lord Justice Watkins [Judgment delivered July 29]

In considering whether a particu-lar imported food was unwholesome for the purposes of making a destruction order, a magistrate should consider whether the food was unwholesome in the context of the specific use intended.

The Court of Appeal so stated giving its reserved reasons for indicating an appeal by the applicant for judicial review of a decision of a Southernpion Justice that 46,474 kg of dates were unwholesome and of his order for their destruction.

Mr Stuart McKinnon, QC and Mi Graham Platford for the applicant; Mr Anthony Scrivener, GC and Mr Adrian Trevelyan thomas for Southampton City Council the justice did not appear and was not represented.

The MASTER OF THE ROLLS and that there were two issues. The first was whether there was power to order the destruction of materials which was "unwholsome" as opposed to being "unit for human consemption". The second was thether in the encumbances, the magistrate had asked bimself the archt augstion.

ther considering the relevant legislation, namely, the Food and Drugs Act 1995 and the Imported Food Regulations (SI 1968 No 97) made under the Act, their Lordships concluded that the magistrate had surisdiction to make the destruction

Regina v Archer, Ex parte under section 9 of the 1955 Act were administrative rather than judicial administrative rather than judicial but were reviewable upon the principles in Associated Provincial Picture Houses Ltd r Wednesbury Corporation ([1948] 1 KB 233).

The facts were not in dispute, 1 he dates were not dessert dates. They were heavily infested with insects which rendered them "unwholsome for human consumption" to quote the public analysi's certificate. But they were not said to be "unfit for human consumption". Unhuman consumption". Un-fortunately there was no definition of "unwholesome" in the regutations.

The real issue, which was never brought to the attention of the magistrate, arose out of the fact that brought to the attention of the magistrate, arose out of the fact that food might be unwholesome in the context of the untreated use but wholesome provided that it was thereafter treated. Alternatively it might be wholesome or unwholesome in the manufacture of brown sauce because the point was some in all normal contexts.

Inal they should be unwholesome that context, it would be his duty to refuse to make such an order.

Lord Justice Oliver delivered a concurring judgment and Lord Justice Watkins agreed.

Solicitors: Thomas Cooper & Subbard: Mr P. C. B. Robertson, sever clearly but to him He arred in some in all normal contexts.

to their Lordships' judgment regulation 6 should not be construed without regard to the intended use of the food. The regulation applied only to food intended for sale for human consumption. That was a penal regulation which should be construed restrictively and it seemed that "unfitness-for human consumption", "unsoundness" and "unwholesomeness" should be judged in the context of the specified use intended.

It would however be open to the local authority to bring the dates once more before the magistrate with a view to obtaining a new destruction order. Should the local authority do so, the magistrate concerned would have to consider whether those dates were mawholesome in the context of the admitted intended use, namely as an ingredient in the manufacture of brown sauce. If they

in the present case it was not disputed that the dates were intended for use as a ingredient in the manufacture of brown sauce and that they should be unwholesome use, namely as an ingredient in the manufacture of brown sauce. If they were unwholesome in that context it would be his duty to condemn the dates and make a destruction order tf they were not unwholeso that context, it would be his duty to

Tax liability in damages

Shove v Downs Surgical Before Mr Justice Sheen

[Judgment delivered July 29]

Mr Justice Sheen so held in the Queen's Bench Division in awarding the plaintiff. Norman Granvill Shove, damages of £84,030 for urangful dismissal by his em-ployers. Downs Surgical.

MR JUSTICE SHEEN said that In awarding damages for wrong-ful dismissal the plaintiff's future was entitled would be taxable in bis hability to pay tax was not to be hands, if in assessing the plaintiff's regarded as too remote when assessing the sum to be awarded to compensate the plaintiff for his loss. signal as too remote, then by party of reasoning his liability to pay tax should not be regarded as too remote when assessing the sum of money which it was necessary to award the plaintiff to compensate him for his loss.

Waterford v Cork and the fear of Sodom v Gomorrah

Clash of two cities as oil fever grips Ireland

From Tim Jones Cork

A tale of two cities threatens in crupt into the Irish political arena as oil fever grows nocontrollably in the republic. The hattle revolves around SEDCO 704, the oil rig which arrived off the Waterford coast last April. It costs £130 a second to operate and stands in 250ft of water for over the herizon.

Few Irish people have seen the rig, but all are following its progress with obsessive interest - for it holds out the glittering prospect of making the country self-sufficient in petroleum

Ireland currently spends Sihu (£676m) on ail imparts so the rig and others to follow could transform the besieged Government attempts to dampen wild specolation with warnings that it will not be known for months whether there is enough oil to be commercially viable have been disregarded.

Mr Denneby's talk of "political muscle" could be the harbinger of bitter battles in the Cabinet and on the floor of the Dail. For ever since Fine Gael, the ruling party, wrested cootrol of the Cork area it has faced mounting criticism over job losses.

But Mr Jones was worried that an oil rush could affect the peace und tranquility of the town, "I know that in England oil developments led to scenes out of Sodom und Gomorrah because whenever the stiff is found the black ladies of the night tend to follow. We must be on our guard ot ensure that does not happeo.
"England seems to be dissi-

All this is in the street called Aveoue Charles de Gaulle, where past battles have left buildings pocked and battered and ruined, unlit and heavy with menace, and in a country whose best fighting men are locked in murderous fighting against Libyan-backed insurgents, far to the barren north.

African capitals often do not resemble capitals at war because wars are distant and invisible. Ndjamena is different. It looks like a place where the war was fought so bitterly that the conflict itself got tired of the city and moved oo, abandoning its stinited creations to idle sightseeing. Victoria Line trains

No Victoria Line trains will run between Brixton and Victoria tomorrow because of engineering work at Brixton. A substitute bus service will link all the stations on this section. Journeys will take up to 5 minutes longer.

Passengers travelling between the West End and stations at the southern end of the Northern Line should, where possible, use the Charing Cross branch of the Northern Line, changing at Kennington.

Channel 4 relay

The 50,000 viewers in and around Scarborough who receive Yorkshire Television ITV pro-grammes from the local relay site on. Oliver's Mount can now tune to Chanoel 4. This relay is used by most viewers in Scarborough and also Scalby, Eastfield, Ayton, Wykeham, Cloughton, Burniston and Seamer and seamer.

Channel 4 programmes - including the Channel 4 ORACLE teletext pages - are now on frequency channel 53. Viewers already receiving from the Oliver's Mount relay on correctly installed Group C/D aerials with the rods upright should have no difficulty in receiving Channel 4, provided that 6 spare tuning button on their sets is correctly adjusted to receive the

In the garden

Growth has been remarkably generous this summer, especially where gardeners have been able to water adequately. Runner beans have now reached the top of the supports and the growing shoot should be pinched out. Onions are ready for lifting now in most parts. Finish hedge trimming soon and clear all weeds and debris from hegde bottoms where they provide soug cover for snails and slugs. Trim the more vigorous rock garden plants if they are likely to swamp their neighbours; also cut back or prop up any herbaceous or annual plants that are flopping on to n lawn. If left only for a few weeks they will cause a bare patch.

Sow spring cabbages, also o short row of carrots and lettuces to give a Cut out raspberry canes as soon as they have finished fruiting and the in new canes to take their place. RH
